URGES REQUISITIONING OF SHIPPING TO TAKE SUPPLIES TO BRITAIN

Roosevelt Would Take Cargo Vessels of All Types From Normal Trade Routes to Haul War Munitions Across the Seas—Makes Request For Speedy Action

WASHINGTON, April 30 (CP).—President Roosevelt tonight asked the United States Maritime Commission to requisition at least 2,000,000 tons of American merchant shipping and utilize the cargo space "in accomplishing our objective of all-out aid to the democracies."

In a letter to Rear Admiral Emory S Land commission chairman the President said that "vital war supplies are piling up at the ports or delayed at the factories" and indicated first consideration must be given to moving these munitions across the Atlantic to Britain

The President indicated that cargo vessels of all types might be taken from their existing or proposed trade routes to haul vital war supplies and food across the seas.

MUST HASTEN EXPANSION

He said also the American merchant fleet must be expanded faster than was planned "so that ships and more ships will be available to carry the food and the munitions of war to the democracies of the world

It was believed that some, if not a considerable number of the ships, would be turned over to Britain under the lend-lease programme

The United States has about 7,000,000 tons of ocean-going merchant tonnage and 2,500,000 tons of lake shipping The Presidential order therefore, affects nearly 20 per cent of American tonnage ocean and lake.

Earlier in the day, Admiral Land in a speech here announced the commission had been asked to prepare plans under which 200,000 tons of shipping would be turned over to Britain monthly to replace losses averaging 5,000,000 tons a year

Under a plan of that sort, all the

Royal Air Force Sinks or Damages 42,000 Tons of Shipping in Week

LONDON April 30 (CP)—Royal Air Force bombers operating in daylight sank or damaged 42,000 tons of Axis shipping off the German Netherlands, French and Norwegian coasts during the week April 17-23 the Air Ministry News Service said today.

Most of the shipping, it said, was guarded by destroyers or other small warships

"It is evident that with milder weather the Germans are easing the strain on their railways by coastal traffic," the Air Ministry said

R.A.F. offensive patrols have made the Germans pay for using sea transport and have deprived them of some valuable supplies the statement declared

EXAMPLE OF WORK

It cited as an example an incident on the morning of March 31 when one of these offensive patrols sighted two German oil tankers each about 8,000 tons, moving westward off Le Havre

The news service said the tankers might have been taking oil to refuel German submarines and the British bombers, ignoring the guns of the anti-aircraft ships astern and ahead of the tankers dived for the attack

A few seconds later the report said there were two explosions on the first tanker, and three bombs were seen to enter the second

The escort ships turned away but the bombers went after them and "raked their decks with machine-gun fire"

Three Planes Destroyed in Malta Attack

VALETTA, Malta April 30 (AP)—Two German bombers were destroyed and a fighter plane probably destroyed Tuesday night during one of the heaviest raids of the war on this British base in the Mediterranean

Eight civilians were killed nineteen were injured and business and residential properties were severely damaged There were four alerts today but small bomber forces caused only slight damage

SAYS ASSENT WAS FORCED

R. L. Maitland, K.C., Strikes Keynote of Conservative Campaign

With Federal taxation as the chief motive power behind Canada's war effort the Pattullo administration had for eighteen months refused every attempt at curtailment of provincial outlays and had only to be bludgeoned into co-ordination and co-operation with the Dominion by direct action at Ottawa in connection with the Federal budget R. L. Maitland K.C. Provincial Conservative leader declared in a key-note address before Victoria Conservatives last evening

The Provincial Leader of the Opposition addressed a rally of 100 Conservatives gathered at the official opening of the new Conservative headquarters at 738 Fort Street being supported by Brigadier J Sutherland Brown and other speakers with G H Bevan-Pritchard presiding Mr Maitland submitted that the Provincial Administration had lost the confidence of the people and predicted its defeat at the polls at the next provincial general election

CONSERVATIVE LEADER

Mr Maitland scored the Administration for what he declared was the announcement of a $1,500,000 political road programme on what could only be considered as the eve of a general election The Conservative pledge was to take provincial roads out of politics, by appointment of an independent and judicial highway commission, a land policy that would attract British stock and fresh settlement an agricultural policy to restore the farm wealth of the province, and steps towards the decentralization of industry so that industry and agriculture could go hand and hand throughout all areas of the province

Italian Viceroy of Ethiopia Escapes in Only Bomber Left After Battle—Victors Surprised at Rapid Fall of Strong Positions

DESSIE, Ethiopia, April 28 (Delayed) (AP)—At dusk this evening at least 1,000 Italian prisoners crawled across the gorge beneath the shattered bridge of Dessie under the watchful stares of the South Africans, who took this northeast Ethiopian stronghold Saturday after a ten-day battle.

The Italians, who themselves blew up the bridge in a last desperate effort to keep out the South Africans were among 8,000 prisoners the Transvaalers estimate were taken in the fierce thrust of infantry, artillery and armored cars

A handful of tall South Africans with fixed bayonets herded this tattered army down one side of the gorge and up the other amid boulders made slick by a sudden thunderstorm They were off on the first lap of the long trip to prison camps in Kenya, South Africa and India

Mr. Hart told The Canadian Press later that, in withdrawing from the personal income and corporation tax fields his province would drop its present 1 per cent wage tax

He said it was possible orders to cease collecting this tax would be issued almost at once but "we may wait and take this whole step of getting out of these tax fields at one move"

29th YEAR AT 728 YATES

REQUISITIONING VESSELS URGED

2,000,000 tons mentioned by President Roosevelt in his letter would be transferred to Britain in a year. He listed seven sources for these ships: Domestic including the Great Lakes; inter-coastal army and navy transports, to the number of about sixty, foreign flag ships in American ports, a few ships from the over-age fleet, possible curtailing of foreign services importing to the United States, and small craft of 1,500 tons and up in the Caribbean and serving Alaska.

Apparently, it is hoped to hand over 200,000 tons a month to Britain while relying on the ship-construction programme to compensate the American merchant fleet on a long-range plan.

Under the long-range shipbuilding programme of the United States Government, seventy-one vessels, averaging 10,000 tons, are expected to be built this year. For 1942, the programme calls for from 200 to 300 ships, and for 1943, 400 to 450 ships.

A BIG STEP

Mr Roosevelt's action was hailed in many quarters tonight as the biggest single step he could have taken, at this stage, to guarantee victory in the Battle of the Atlantic.

It was interpreted as his reply to Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast plea Sunday: "Of course, when I said Give us the tools and we will finish the job I meant put them within our reach."

It was predicted tonight that sixty-nine German, Italian and Danish ships now under seizure in American ports and aggregating 240,000 tons would be turned over to Britain as part of the plan. It was suggested in some quarters that other foreign shipping in American ports, French vessels, for instance, also might be seized and put to use. But there was no official confirmation of this. There is a bill pending before Congress to permit the use of all foreign tonnage in American ports.

Mr Roosevelt's letter gave no indication of the tonnage of American ships that might be turned over to Britain. The letter, however, referred both to foreign ships and "ships that are to be transferred to foreign (presumably British) registry" so that both classifications could be operated "in routes to the combat zones."

NAVAL PATROLS

Already Mr. Roosevelt has said that American naval vessels may range the Seven Seas, even into combat zones, to be on the lookout for craft that might prove a threat to the Western Hemisphere. These naval patrols are expected to be of help to Britain by spotting Axis warcraft and giving warning of their presence.

Mr. Roosevelt has said the Government has no idea of using American naval vessels for convoy purposes, however. Today, with Administration forces arguing that he could not resort to convoys without asking the consent of Congress, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee defeated a half dozen attempts to force anti-convoy resolutions to the Senate floor for debate.

Mr Roosevelt wrote Land:

"As part of the defence effort to which this country is committed I wish you at the earliest possible moment to secure the service of at least 2,000,000 tons of merchant shipping which now exists and plan the operation thereof in such a manner as will make their cargo space immediately effective in accomplishing our objective of all-out aid to the democracies.

TWO-FOLD PROGRAMME

Mr Roosevelt said the programme would fall into these two parts:

1. To arrange for utilization in routes to the combat zone of foreign ships or ships which are to be transferred to foreign registry.

2. To reallocate American flag ships including those which will be completed in the next few months in such a way as to make every cargo directly or indirectly useful to American defence efforts and the "winning by the democracies of the battle now being waged in the Atlantic."

Mr Roosevelt said he realized fully that to get cargo and refrigerated ships and tankers diverted from existing or proposed routes would cause great inconvenience and loss of trade as well as sacrifices by the consuming public.

"But the vital war materials are piling up at the ports or delayed at the factories," he said. "We must supply those ships and at once. I am sure the owners of our ships will gladly co-operate in this essential enterprise."

Land had conferred with the President earlier today and said they had discussed "ships, ships and more ships" and that the President "wanted everything expedited like hell."

URGENT NECESSITY

While Mr Roosevelt voiced pleasure over progress of the commission's shipbuilding programme in his letter to the chairman, he spoke also of an urgent necessity of continuous operation of all existing shipyards.

"Every possible means," the President said, "should be immediately explored to increase the number of employees at work, to further develop the training programme and to speed up the building of the additional shipbuilding ways already authorized."

For the programme which he proposed to Land Mr Roosevelt suggested that a special person should be assigned to the job and give his full time to it.

CONTINUING LONG DEBATE

Government Wheat Policy Subject of Suggestions And Criticism

OTTAWA, April 30 (CP)—Yearly payments by the Federal Government to compensate farmers for income losses they suffer through Federal price controls which prevent them selling in a competitive market were proposed in the House of Commons today by Hughes Cleaver (Lib., Halton).

He said payments should be in the form of war savings bonds, not negotiable until the war is over.

Mr. Cleaver spoke in the debate on agriculture precipitated by a Conservative amendment to the motion to go into committee of supply. This debate proceeded at some length before the Easter recess and occupied the House throughout this afternoon.

EXPLAINS ACTION

The discussion was preceded by a statement from Munitions Minister Howe on the Government's action in appointing a controller to operate the National Steel Car Corporation plant at Hamilton yesterday, as a result of the company's refusal to accept the recommendations of a board of conciliation.

The interim report of the board recommended that National Steel Car reinstate an employee against whom discrimination was alleged and the taking of a vote of employees to determine whether the steel workers' organizing committee represented a majority of the workers.

The House applauded the Government's action, which Mr Howe said, was taken under powers contained in the Munitions and Supply Act and because the stoppage of work at Hamilton was seriously impeding war production.

POLITICAL FOOTBALL

Mr. Cleaver, first speaker in the agriculture debate, deplored the action of the Conservatives for making "a political football" of the farm problem.

The amendment was an expression of want of confidence in the Government and if adopted would require its resignation and a general election.

He resented the necessity of voting against agriculture in order to keep in office a Government elected last year as Canada's wartime administration, and in order to save the country from the turmoil of a general election at this time.

Bitter commendation of the Government's farm policies came from G. H. Castleden (C.C.F., Yorkton). He condemned them as "undemocratic, shortsighted and unscientific" and declared the Government was "deliberately" ruining agriculture both East and West.

URGES GIFT OF WHEAT

The wheat acreage reduction scheme also was condemned by Dr H. A. Bruce (Con., Parkdale) who contended the policy was "ill-conceived and likely to lower the farmers' standard of living."

He urged a free gift of wheat to Great Britain and suggested that the British Empire now should offer to reprovision ravaged European countries when the war is over. Dr Bruce said such an offer might have an important effect on the length of the war.

He also urged that Canada offer a free gift of flour to Britain. Had such gifts been made earlier, he said, large quantities of wheat would now be stored in Britain and rationing would not need to be as severe as it is.

Mrs Dorise Nielson (Unity, North Battleford) said the only successful farming at present was that carried on by large-scale operators. She asked what the Government proposed to do for small operators, either to enable them to sustain themselves on the land or establish themselves in industry.

Liguori Lacombe (Liberal, Laval-Two Mountains) favored exemption from military service of the farming class and workers in industries affiliated with agriculture.

TO QUIT FIELD OF INCOME TAXATION

yesterday to hear the budget and issued a statement immediately after in which he declared his province would co-operate with the Federal Government in its efforts to meet the financial burdens of the war.

Mr. Ilsley today made public the letter he addressed to Premiers with the Government's proposal, together with details of the form of compensation by which the provinces will receive the equivalent of the revenue their acceptance would remove.

While the letters advised the Premiers he would be glad to discuss the matter with them the minister said tonight he was not proposing a general conference. He expected the Premiers to visit him if they desired or to communicate their decision or comments by letter.

STUDYING SITUATION

Already Premier A. S. MacMillan of Nova Scotia is on the way to Ottawa to discuss the matter. Premier J. B. McNair of New Brunswick said he would come to Ottawa later to confer with Federal officials. He expressed opinion that simplicity and economy would be served by a single Federal tax and that it would be in the interests of the New Brunswick people to be relieved of paying income taxes to municipalities. These also would be withdrawn under Mr. Ilsley's plan.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario and Premier Adelard Godbout of Quebec plan Cabinet meetings next week to discuss the matter. Premier John Bracken of Manitoba and Premier William Aberhart of Alberta said statements would be issued later.

Mr. Ilsley said the reaction to the budget, which contained unprecedented taxation burdens for the people and corporations, was very favorable so far as he had been advised.

There were some complaints from the manufacturers of cosmetics and from the moving picture entertainment industry, both of which are being more heavily taxed, but none from other quarters so far, Mr Ilsley said.

ONLY MATTER OF TIME

British Columbia's 1 per cent payroll tax appeared on its way out yesterday, as provincial leaders at Ottawa made arrangements to abandon the income and corporation tax fields to the Dominion Government. Deducted at its source, the 1 per cent tax is still collectible under the Income Tax Act, but its final repeal was conceded yesterday to be only a matter of time.

While no provincial decision has been announced, it was assumed in circles close to the Government that the actual collection of the provincial 1 per cent income levy would be halted shortly, and at the next session the provision in the act repealed. That would leave a partial refund in the hands of the Provincial Treasury, which would have to be refunded when the statute is changed.

FAR-REACHING CHANGES

With greater and more pressing changes in provincial tax structures, however, the fate of the 1 per cent levy was considered a side-issue, compared with detailed adjustment of the tax structure now being worked out at the national capital.

Dual collection of gasoline taxes, the imposition of a Federal amusement levy, higher excise taxes on malt and wines and many other adjustments loomed on the immediate horizon for the province. Abolition of a special subsidy enjoyed by this province was also noted.

Until details have been worked out between the Dominion and province at Ottawa, little official comment was being made on the issue here. From the single collection of income taxes, the province is to receive a fixed refund annually but the amount of the refund itself was not yet clear.

Duff Cooper May Resign Portfolio

LONDON, April 30 (CP)—Reports tonight indicated Alfred Duff Cooper might soon resign his post as Minister of Information as a result of widespread newspaper and radio criticism of the ministry.

Both the radio and newspapers have cited the ministry for "inefficiency," and have said editorially that it needed overhauling.

ACREAGE CUT PLAN REVISED

Regulations Amended for Classification—Provision Made for Penalties

OTTAWA, April 30 (CP)—Revised regulations under the 1941-42 wheat acreage reduction programme tabled in the Commons today by Agriculture Minister Gardiner, make provision for fines up to $100 against those who make false returns.

Under the revised rules, the minister may require the operator of any country elevator to make available information with respect to the farming operations of any person or persons in any year.

The wording of regulations for computing acreage reduction was changed in the document tabled today. Officials said revisions were mainly for purposes of clarification.

BASIS OF COMPUTATION

For purposes of the regulations the acreage reduction on any farm will be computed by deducting the number of acres sown to wheat in 1941 from the number sown to wheat in 1940.

On farms where no land was sown to wheat in 1940, the wheat acreage in 1939 will be accepted as the land sown to wheat in 1940, unless it exceeds 60 per cent of the cultivated acreage on such farm in 1940. In such cases the number of acres sown to wheat in 1940 will be considered to be 60 per cent of the total cultivated acreage on the farm in 1940.

On or after July 1, 1941 Agriculture Minister Gardiner is authorized to pay $4 an acreage on Summer-fallowed land which represents reduced wheat acreage. Each acre sown to coarse grains or grass before July 1 beyond such acreage in 1940 will warrant a payment of $2. A similar amount will be paid for each acre sown to rye or grass or both after July 31, 1941 in excess of the number of acres of cultivated land computed to be sown in rye or grass before July 1, 1940.

LAND SOWN TO GRASS

An additional sum of $2 an acre will be paid for each acre sown to grass or rye in 1941 and which is in grass or rye on July 1, 1942 provided that such acreage in grass is additional to the grass acreage at July 1, 1940.

Where two or more persons are eligible for payments under the plan a two-thirds or greater amount as may be payable under private agreements, will be made to the farmer. Payment of one-third or less will be made to the landlord. In the event of dispute the minister may decide on the division of payments.

Payment may be withheld for a farm operated by a tenant in 1940 and operated by hired labor in 1941 unless the lease was canceled by written notice served prior to March 12, 1941, or by written agreement between the landlord and tenant after March 12.

No More Gallant Stand in History Says Eyewitness

[illegible]

Battle Put Up by Anzacs Described as Tragic and Historic Chapter—Australians Magnificent in Victory and Even Finer in Defeat

By JOHN R. HETHERINGTON
North American Newspaper Alliance

WITH THE AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCES, VIA CAIRO, April 28 (By Wireless, Delayed).—One of the most tragic and most heroic chapters in the history of Anzacs in battle has been written in Greece since Hitler's army began smashing its way south in that country on April 6.

The Imperial forces have been withdrawing because they lacked the numbers capable of withstanding the incessant powerful thrusts of the overwhelmingly larger German army and air force. Numerical strength was the only point in which the Allies were inferior.

History records no more gallant stand than the few made against the many among Greece's snowclad mountains.

I saw the same Australians who fought in Greece fighting a series of victorious battles in Libya a few weeks ago. They were magnificent in victory, but they proved themselves even finer in defeat. And the New Zealanders in the front line were fighting every bit as well as the Australians.

ON FEET AT FINISH

The Imperial troops were strafed from the air and hammered from the ground. They were weary with moving back through cruel mountains, half frozen through sleeping and living in the snow. They knew the fight was hopeless after the first few days, but they stuck it out. The line they held was never broken, despite the deadly blows dealt against it by the German forces. It was like a fight between a giant and a pigmy, with the pigmy still on his feet at the finish.

Nobody yet knows what casualties the Anzacs suffered, but it is probable the final figures will show that the Germans suffered several times as many. It is impossible as yet to give an adequate picture of the events in Greece since the bulk of the Imperial forces landed there in mid-March. Officers and men knew that heavy German forces were massing in Bulgaria, but they felt reasonably confident that the Anzac and Anglo-Greek forces already in Greece could hold the enemy while reinforcements crossed the Mediterranean.

Two Australian infantry brigades were holding a central position in the line north of the Haliakmon River when the Germans attacked Greece on April 6. The New Zealanders were stretched out toward the coast on the right; the Greeks were holding the line in the mountains on the left. The natural strength of the positions was tremendous, but the Allied forces seemed dangerously thin.

DISTURBING NEWS

The prospect became disquieting when it was learned that no substantial reinforcements were on their way to Greece from Egypt. Little news reached us in the mountains. We heard that the Greeks were falling back in the north. This had been anticipated and caused no dismay. However, the knowledge that the Yugoslavs had failed to hold out and had allowed the Germans to enter Monastir Gap was more disturbing. It meant that the Germans probably could cut off the Greek army in Albania, and might even outflank the Australian-New Zealand-English-Greek line based on Mount Olympus.

I discussed the general position with one of the most responsible Australian commanders on April 12, and asked him how he regarded the prospects. He said, "Oh, all right, but you like to see a man or two about and some equipment." His dry comment typified what many other observers were thinking.

That was the day on which plans for the first withdrawal were being carried out. Engineers were preparing to blow up roads and bridges and units were packing up for a backward move. Withdrawal to a new line south of the Haliakmon River was made the same night. It was successful, considering the difficulties. One Australian brigade had heavy fighting and the New Zealand units were also in the thick of it.

German armored forces were used against the Anzacs, though not extensively. German tanks also assailed the Greeks on the left. It was reckoned that at this stage the Germans were using two armored divisions in addition to motorized infantry against the Allied line.

SINGLE ENGLISH BRIGADE

The Allies' only armored force was a single English brigade. The Nazis had not thus far shown their air strength over the front line, although they had carried out a series of heavy raids on the Greek ports, including Piraeus. Our troops saw the first dive-bombers in large numbers on April 13. It was the beginning of an air blitzkrieg which grew daily more intense, until a journey of even a few miles on the road between Athens and the front line became a perilous adventure.

We saw some R.A.F. planes before the air blitz opened. Thereafter I saw not a one flying over the front. This is no criticism of Air Force activity. I know British planes and pilots were doing fine work throughout the campaign attacking German lines of communication. The trouble was there were too few aircraft to carry out regular defensive patrols over the Allies' area and discourage the raiders.

It was heart-breaking to watch formations of German bombers, thirty to fifty strong, escorted by numerous fighters, flying over us at regular periods, day after day, and strafing our troops and lines of communications with impunity. The men bore up admirably under the strain, but it is futile to pretend that these deadly visitations did not [illegible] their spirits.

The [illegible] blitz was very systematic. German planes raided the little village of Elasson first, while the Anzac Corps Headquarters were operating from there. Corps Headquarters moved out after the raid, but the bombers came over again next day and gave the village a terrific hammering. Perhaps it was the Nazi way of warning other villages not to entertain military guests.

MERCILESSLY BOMBED

Other towns and villages behind the front were also mercilessly bombed. Larissa, where through-road traffic to the front passed, was wrecked and the townspeople evacuated it.

A further withdrawal began on April 16. There was no help for it. The German weight of numbers was simply too strong. This was the beginning of a movement which culminated when the Anzacs took up the Thermopylae Line in the rugged mountains clustering at the foot of Mt. Parnassus. The line was about thirty miles long in contrast to the 150-mile-long Mt. Olympus Line on which the Anzac and Anglo-Greek troops originally awaited the enemy.

However, the strength of the Imperial Forces, in both men and equipment, had been reduced by earlier fierce fighting. Nor was the new line by any means impregnable. There were several possible lines of attack from the west, and the island of Euboea on the south was a dangerous Achilles heel. The island is separated from the mainland by only a narrow strip of water and it was necessary to place a small mobile force on it in order to reduce the danger of the Germans landing air-borne troops there.

WITHOUT CONFUSION

The Imperial Forces were heavily and persistently strafed from the air as they moved backward. Many trucks were riddled with bullets and others blown up. Many more swung off the road as the strafers swooped down on them, but the withdrawal continued without confusion in the face of the worst the Germans could do.

Australian observers, looking down on the plain of Thermopylae from Bralos Pass, saw heart-breaking evidence of the Nazis' superiority in equipment. Field guns were being landed from big Junkers planes and other planes fetched load after load of troops.

It was evident the line could not long be held by the Anzacs despite its natural strength. German forces were massing at different surrounding points in heavy numbers. It was reported on the night of April 23 that 450 troop-carrying vehicles were moving against the Anzac line, apparently aiming to attack it on the west flank. It was also discovered that German troops had landed on the northern coast of Euboea Island, presenting a threat from a different point.

The Imperial Forces began to withdraw on April 22. It was planned that the brigade holding Bralos Pass should move back on April 24, followed by a covering force commanded by an English brigadier. I do not know how far these moves were carried out according to plan, as communications were difficult in the mountains. It will be many weeks before the full story of the Greek campaign can be told. But one thing shines through the fog of uncertainty which at present cloaks it. The Anzacs have never fought a harder fight or met defeat with greater honor.

Preparing for New Gasoline Taxation Here

THE Provincial Fuel Control Board moved yesterday to extend the fixed retail price of gasoline by adding on the three cents per gallon tax that will be imposed by the new Federal budget, Dr W A Carrothers announced. If the Dominion collects the full tax without rebates, it will acquire a $2,000,000 annual revenue in British Columbia from this source, it was estimated. The Liquor Control Board meanwhile was considering upward revision on price lists, but precise changes had not yet been worked out.

NANAIMO SEEKS SHARE OF WORK

Civic Committee to Secure Data on Shipbuilding Sites —Wants Contracts

NANAIMO, April 30 — Nanaimo industrial committee at a meeting on Wednesday night authorized a committee to secure expert data on shipbuilding sites near Nanaimo with a view to establishing an industry here to build wooden ships.

The meeting was unanimous that Nanaimo was entitled to its share of war contracts for wooden ships, the same as New Westminster, Vancouver, Victoria, Prince Rupert, and will press the issue in the belief that if an understanding to that effect is arrived at with the Government, reputable British Columbia shipbuilding firms will be asked to locate in Nanaimo.

FEAR UNEMPLOYMENT

A letter will be forwarded to the Hon. George Pearson asking him to give support to the proposal. Mr Pearson will also be informed that within the next six weeks this city will have 900 unemployed men. The figures were based on a survey made by the industrial committee which showed 365 unemployed men and forty-two unemployed women at the present time and that 300 more would be added the Northfield mine closes at the end of May. Some 300 men working at Camp Nanaimo would be laid off when the work was finished there in six weeks' time.

THE SUPREME LESSON

Three-quarters of the British Imperial Force that went to the assistance of Greece has been evacuated, in all some 45,000 men. The strength of the force was 60,000 men, including one Australian and one New Zealand division. The casualties in killed and wounded, according to the latest estimates, amount to 3,000, a remarkably small figure considering that in the fighting the Imperial Force was outnumbered five to one. These figures account for 48,000 of the 60,000 men sent into Greece. The fate of the remaining 12,000 does not appear to be known at this time. Many of these were engaged in the rearguard actions which enabled the bulk of the force to be withdrawn by sea. It is possible that some at least of the 12,000 have been captured, or it may be found that casualties in dead and wounded are greater than now estimated. The Germans claim to have taken 5,000 prisoners.

It is a notable feat, in the face of the overwhelming odds brought into the field by the enemy, that so many should have been saved. The evacuation seems to have had some of the features of that of Dunkerque, for shipping of many varieties was used and what aerial protection was possible was given to the troops as they embarked and were taken to Africa or Crete. There is little mention of the part played by the Royal Navy, but it must have been a considerable one. The likelihood is that many thousands of the troops were taken off by warships.

In all that has happened in Greece, and in Libya as well, there is a supreme lesson that will no doubt govern future action. It is that men in their hundreds of thousands, and not in their thousands only, will be needed for the campaigns now developing in the Mediterranean area. The Germans, wherever they strike, have so far been able to make certain of bringing overwhelming forces to bear. That, and that alone, is the secret of their successes up to date. It may be recalled that Mr. Winston Churchill, in his recent broadcast, told of how, presumably because of the necessity of sending troops to Greece, those left for the defence of Cirenaica consisted of one infantry division and a single armored brigade. Then he said: "The Germans advanced sooner and in greater strength than we or our generals expected." This is exactly what has been the lesson of this war throughout all its stages of field operations in which the Germans have participated. To use once more a hackneyed phrase: "They never send a boy on a man's errand."

It has become obvious that a large Imperial Army, far larger than was ever anticipated, will have to be built up in the Near East. It is possible that a million men, with all the necessary mechanical equipment, and an air force, second only in strength to that used for the defence of Britain, will have to support this army. The Germans are only at the beginning of their operations in the Mediterranean area. They would gain little or nothing by merely retaining the footholds they have won. Their objectives will be control of the Dardanelles, of the oilfields of Irak and Iran, of Palestine to secure a gateway to the Suez Canal, and they will attempt, too, to reach that vital artery of commerce and strategic value by a thrust through Egypt from Cirenaica. These are possibilities that can only be safeguarded against by the employment of large bodies of men, great mechanical strength and dominating aerial power. The time should be approaching, and rapidly, when the story of campaigns will no longer be that of the "overwhelming odds" employed by the enemy.

"GIVE US THE TOOLS"

Mr. Paul Smith, Editor of The San Francisco Chronicle, has returned from a visit to Great Britain and has a warning for his country. He says that the United States is the only nation in the world "capable of completely and finally shattering the splendid morale that keeps up British resistance." Germany cannot do it, nor all the cohorts of others she has regimented for the support of her military machine. Mr. Smith says that the British people have profound faith that the United States meant business in passing the Lend-Lease legislation, and that it means business now. "I hope we did," says Mr. Smith, writing in his newspaper. "I hope we still do. But if we did and still do, we'd better deliver the goods at the earliest possible moment." Then Mr. Smith writes:

"If there is too long a postponement, we may go down in history as the erstwhile democracy that destroyed itself by failing to maintain the morale of the soldiers on our first line of defence. Or perhaps even worse than that; the nation that didn't even feed or arm its first line of defence."

LEADERSHIP A CRYING NEED

Here is what Mr. J. R. Watson, of Toronto, one man of many thinking similarly, has to say about Canada's war effort:

"There are proved shortages of aircraft, ships, tanks, and all contingent equipment, as well as the men skilled in their handling. Is Canada doing her part in the replenishing of each with patriotic frenzy, rallying to the aid of a tired, battered force going all out in the face of a vicious onslaught with nothing but hope to spur them on? Is Canada systematically crossing items off the Allied shopping list? Is Canada in there punching with her Mother? The common people are. They want to get things done, to do their share, but their spirit needs the stimulant of leadership. They are tired of floundering about in confusion to the mad accompaniment of speeches containing little else but quaint political grammar. They want governmental enthusiasm of the Churchill type; action of like type. The powers that somehow bemoan the lag of enlistment, without seeking to correct the ill which lies at the cause. It is not unreasonable to assume that each of the men enlisted to date did so with the predominant idea of taking his fair share in the furtherance of a just cause, with a view towards causing its earlier conclusion. There was a great individual sacrifice in each case. Each man had, and has yet, a right to expect that the Government, too, will don the King's uniform of State and make all necessary sacrifices and prosecute the war with all similar vigor. The Government has given only lukewarm assurance of this, and a willing people is forced to remain idle while Mr. Mackenzie King rubs his hands, satisfied that he is doing a capital job. The answer to the contrary glares in every headline. Twentieth century lightning war is an altogether new departure. Ethics commonly recognized have gone by the board. Mackenzie King is a political boxer. We want a 'slugger.' We need a man who will come out fighting. He's probably in the crowd now, Canada. Let's look for him!"

The Germans have introduced "quislingism" in sport in Norway. Eight skiing, skating and wrestling champions there have been forbidden to compete again, either in Norway or elsewhere, or to act as instructors because they refused to take part in "quislingist" competitions. Regimentation has been introduced by the Nazi conquerors into every phase of life in Norway. A reformatory has been instituted for anti-quisling children who are being sent there as "enemies of the State."

New Zealand has a population of 1,626,000 persons. That Dominion has sent 40,000 troops overseas, has 40,000 more in the trained militia and also a home guard. Premier Fraser admits that he is disappointed in his country's war effort, yet, proportionately speaking, in the matter of manpower, it is considerably greater than that of Canada. There has never been a statement from Mr. Mackenzie King that he is disappointed with this Dominion's war effort. It is long overdue.

From the beginning of the war up to the end of November, 1940, there were 16,556 enlistments in British Columbia for the Navy, the Army and the Air Force. In Germany one-tenth of the population is in uniform in one of other of the three services. In British Columbia less than one-in thirty-five of the population has so far joined the forces. This is a sidelight on the fact that wherever Germany strikes on the battlefront it is with "overwhelming odds."

READING OF SPEECHES

The practice of reading speeches in Parliament is to be deplored and the trouble is that it is becoming universal. Politicians are, seemingly, less sure of themselves than they used to be, or else have not the qualities necessary for extemporaneous speaking. The London correspondent of The Manchester Guardian comments by saying: "The hearts of members go down to their boots when they see a Minister rise, cough to clear his voice, and then produce from his pocket half a pound of typescript—you cannot think of it in other terms than avoirdupois. This is not debate, which should be the living play of mind in speech. No wonder half the House walks out and waits for Hansard next morning."

The political correspondent of the same newspaper has also something to say on the matter, as he considers this reading of speeches threatens to debilitate Parliament. He says: "No Parliamentarian of the first rank has ever accepted this humiliating bondage to a manuscript. What makes it worse is that the Minister often cannot even claim paternity for the poor manuscript. It is frequently the child of an able civil servant out of a Roneo outfit. The typewriter and perhaps a little ministerial indolence are the enemies."

Then, a leading writer in The Guardian says: "The duty of the orator has always been threefold—to instruct, to please, to move. Our politics would be dull and our system of self-government enfeebled if our readers did no more than 'instruct.' The present times may not encourage the lofty theme, the passion and the cut and thrust of high debate, but times will change. It would be sad if Parliament, forsaking oratory, fell into the habit of reading account books to itself."

Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it every day, and at last we cannot break it.—H. Mann.

By SANDHAM GRAVES

Mark Twain had a deal of fun in writing "Eve's Diary," without harming anyone. Between the lines you can almost hear the mischievous chuckles. In it, nevertheless, he paid one of the finest tributes to the loyalty of womanhood ever penned. Let us keep that to the last. Listen to Eve communing among the animals.

"Eve: Friday—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and today; all without seeing him. It is a long time to be alone; still, it is better to be alone than unwelcome.

"I had to have company—I was made for it, I think—so I made friends with the animals. They are just charming, and they have the kindest disposition and the politest ways; they never look sour, they never let you feel that you are intruding, they smile at you and wag their tail, if they've got one, and they are always ready for a romp or an excursion or anything you want to propose. I think they are perfect gentlemen.

"All these days we have had such good times, and it hasn't been lonesome for me, ever. Lonesome! No, I should say not. Why, there's always a swarm of them around—sometimes as much as four or five acres—you can't count them; and when you stand on a rock in the midst and look out over the furry expanse it is so mottled and splashed and gay with color and frisking sheen and sun-flashed, and so rippled with stripes, that you might think it was a lake, only you know it isn't; and there's storms of sociable birds, and hurricanes of whirring wings; and when the sun strikes all that feathery commotion, you have a blazing up of all the colors you can think of, enough to put your eyes out.

"When we are on the march it is an imposing sight—there's nothing like it anywhere. For comfort I ride a tiger or a leopard, because it is soft and had a round back that fits me, and because they are such pretty animals; but for long distance or for scenery I ride the elephant. He hoists me up with his trunk, but I can get off myself; when we are ready to camp, he sits and I slide down the back way."

According to the diary, however, this love of animals was a bit of a trial to Adam. It led to complications with a brontosaurus. But let Samuel Clemens tell it, thus.

"Adam: When the mighty brontosaurus came striding into camp, she regarded it as an acquisition, I considered it a calamity; that is a good sample of the lack of harmony that prevails in our views of things. She wanted to domesticate it, I wanted to make it a present of homestead and move out. She believed it could be tamed by kind treatment and would be a good pet; I said a pet twenty-one feet high and eighty-four feet long would be no proper thing to have about the place, because, even with the best intentions and without meaning any harm, it could sit on the house and mash it, for anyone could see by the look of its eyes that it was absent-minded.

"Still, her heart was set upon having that monster, and she couldn't give it up. She thought we could start a dairy with it, and wanted me to help her milk it: but I wouldn't, it was too risky.—We hadn't any ladder, anyway. Then she wanted to ride it, and look at the scenery. Thirty or forty feet of its tail was lying on the ground, like a fallen tree, and she thought she could climb it, but she was mistaken; when she got to the steep place it was too slick and down she came, and would have hurt herself but for me. Was she satisfied now? No. She thought that we could tame him, and make him stand in the river for a bridge. She tried her theory, but it failed. He came out and followed her around like a pet mountain, like the other animals. They all do that."

That is glorious fooling. The whole piece is thick with sunshine and laughter, and harmless fun. But at the end comes an acute and deeply sincere tribute to Eve, and to all of her successors. It is placed, most forcefully, in the words of Eve herself. Eve is trying to find an explanation for her regard for Adam. She decides, according to Mr. Clemens, that it is not on account of his singing, which she can scarcely tolerate, nor his brightness, nor his considerate ways, nor his rough delicacy, nor his education—he having learned a multitude of things that were not so, nor his chivalry. But let Mark Twain tell it:

"Eve: Then why is it that I love him? Merely because he is masculine, I think. At bottom he is good, and I love him for that, but I could love him without it. If he should beat me and abuse me, I should go on loving him, I know it. It is a matter of sex, I think.

"He is strong and handsome, and I love him for that, and I admire him and am proud of him, but I could love him without those qualities. If he were plain, I should love him; if he were a wreck, I should love him; and I would work for him, and slave over him, and pray for him and watch at his bedside until I died. Yes, I think I love him merely because he is mine and is masculine. There is no other reason, I suppose. And so I think it is as I first said: that this kind of love is not a product of reasonings and statistics. It just comes—none knows whence—and cannot explain itself. And doesn't need to."

"Eve's Diary" closes with one of the most powerful lines in the piece. It is Adam's reflection at her graveside, thus: "Adam: Wheresoever she was, there was Eden." And for many a man, until the end of time itself, that will continue to be true!

Glancing Over Sport

On the surface at present it appears that for the first time for many years there will not be a senior men's division operating in the City Softball League this season. Apparently one club is so strong that no others wish to enter the section. And remember just a few years ago when we had a strong City League and also another formidable circuit running under the name of the Westholme League. The brand of ball in those days was the best seen in Victoria since the game was introduced . . . The classic Kentucky Derby is being run on Saturday at Churchill Downs and it looks as if a dozen horses will go after the big purse. After glancing over the list to date, I will place the first four to this order: 1, Porter's Cap; 2, Whirlaway; 3, Our Boots; 4, Blue Pair . . . Bobby Jones, the only golfer to make the "grand slam," that is winning the British open and amateur and the American open and amateur, is watching his fourteen-year-old boy on the fairways these days. He is playing in the seventies already, but Bobby doesn't want him to take part in tournament golf, for he knows the strain is too great. The former king of golfdom should know, for when he completed the "slam" back in 1930 he lost thirty pounds and the mental and physical strain was so strong that he retired after the four major victories in the final rounds of the national amateur that year. Bobby dropped twelve pounds, believe it or not.—J.D.

Others Pay Taxes

Canada is not the only nation where taxes have been increased. Today in Washington State the sales tax will be increased to three cents on every dollar purchase. A 3 per cent tax will also be imposed on house sales, repairs and alterations . . . Sign in an outlying picture show, "Ladies Must Live—With Wayne Morris." Perhaps the femmes will have something to say about that . . . According to an interview at Los Angeles with Father Bernard R. Hubbard, the glacier priest: "There is no possibility of an invasion of Alaska because of its vast, difficult terrain, its dense forests, lack of roads, and unpredictable weather" . . . Perhaps the Provincial Government can now relax and forego the costly British Columbia-Alaska Highway . . . A Chicago newspaper stated that the central police station there is installing a burglar alarm to protect $100,000 worth of crime detection apparatus, following two recent burglaries . . . Note from Aubrey: "It is not the things you do not know that get you into trouble. It is the things you know for sure that are not so" . . . While the City Council parks committee slumbers on, thousands of citizens and servicemen throng Beacon Hill Park on warm Sundays. Park attendance this year shows a large increase above that of last year, yet no move has been made for band concerts.—O.B.

KEEPING PRICES DOWN

LONDON, April 30 (CP)—Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, Parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Food, told the House of Commons today that the Government is spending £90,000,000 ($400,500,000) annually in subsidies to "keep the price of food down."

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of May 1, 1891)

The Races Held Over—The rain, instead of ceasing for the Spring meeting of the Jockey Club, poured down with never ceasing persistency yesterday. With the water coming down in torrents, horse racing was practically out of the question, so an emergency meeting was held in the afternoon to Brackman & Ker's offices. By the rules of the National Association, with which the club is affiliated, races cannot be postponed from one week to another. The directors accordingly decided to meet the difficulty by calling the races off, and receiving new entries until 11 o'clock on Tuesday evening next. The races will be taken up next Friday and Saturday, when it is hoped that the weathermaker will be kind.

Freight Wreck Near Puyallup—A wreck occurred on the Northern Pacific Railroad, near Puyallup, on Tuesday evening, which involved the destruction of five or six car loads of freight, which means quite a loss to the company. The cause of it was that the westbound freight No. 57 overlooked the fact that the eastbound freight No. 64 had not yet passed, and the two trains met head on. The trainmen jumped in time to save themselves and none was hurt. The track was blocked for several hours.

City Trustees—In event of the city contributing toward the purchase of suitable exhibition buildings for the Agricultural Society, the right will be given the council to elect two or three trustees upon the board of directors to watch over the city's interests.

Let's Face the Facts

Canadians all, whate'er our race,
Search deep our hearts; truth sternly face.
Our conscience stilled with "partial aid."
That phrase by faltering comrades made.
We argue now how much to give,
While Britons die, that we might live.
The Maple Leaf hangs low its head:
Ashamed to face those glorious dead,
Who face the foe, "We fight!" cried.
Then turned our backs, while heroes died.
Have we no cause for which to fight?
Can we not tell the wrong from right?
Canadians all! Have we no pride?
Is this for what our fathers died?
To watch our kinsmen writhe in pain,
And plead for help; yet all in vain.
Face now the truth; spurn thought of self,
Of politics, and making wealth.
Throw all we have in Britain's hands,
And swiftly help, while still she stands.
Canadians all, whate'er our race;
The facts we now must grimly face.
If England dies, we too shall fall.
Conscript our men, our wealth, our all!
Then, only then, we'll truly be,
O Canada, on guard for thee!

—C. Tapping.

KID GLOVE TREATMENT

Sir,—The kid glove treatment of prisoners of war in Canada is to me sickening to say the least. We all know the horrors endured by Allied prisoners in Nazi concentration camps, and I maintain a firmer hand should be used to rule those in custody in our own country.

Twenty-eight German prisoners have escaped in this last episode, and fortunately have practically all been recaptured. We read of four in Medicine Hat being given clean clothes and baths, etc. They were not hungry so our Government did not have to give them apple pie and ice cream. However, we good naturedly listen to them boasting of their escape.

I would instill the fear of punishment into such men so strongly that they would fear for their lives too much to do any escaping.

We who are urged for overseas duty have little stomach for it when this sort of business is going on.

I hope this letter arouses others sharing a like feeling with the writer to protest.

ROUSE UP, CANADA!

Sir,—On the front page of today's Times, Defence Minister Ralston is quoted as saying: "There was no occasion for 'being jittery' about man power. So far, Canada had had no recruiting campaign."

On the same page, Prime Minister Mackenzie King is quoted as saying: "So long as Britain stands, no reverse shall be decisive." Think of it: "So long as Britain stands!" So long as helpless women and children, blind, aged and homeless can bleed and suffer and die in their mutilated thousands in the Motherland, in order to save democracy, we in Canada need have no occasion for being "jittery about man power."

Are we so drunk with immunity from the sense of responsibility that we are completely unaware of the price we must always pay for freedom? Have we a Government at Ottawa little better than a flabby mess of cowardly indecision that a Defence Minister, after nineteen months of the most ruthless mechanised warfare, can say to the people: "So far Canada had had no recruiting campaign?" Have we gone anaemic from indifference? Has the fighting spirit of old Canada ceased to respond to the call of outraged Motherland, that we can today read such specious statements from our Prime Minister. "So long as Britain stands no reverse shall be decisive."

"So long as Britain stands"—and if Britain falls, what then? Will a recruiting campaign avail us anything then? Will liberty and pride of race mean anything to us then? Will it give us cause for comfort to say: "Look what we were going to do if we had only been given the time?"

Rouse up ye sons and daughters of old United Empire Loyalists! Rouse up, ye privileged offspring of the brave and courageous pioneers who never flinched when facing hopeless odds. Rouse up, ye people of Canada, that we may still be in time to help defeat the Nazi scourge that those Canadians yet unborn may say of us, as Churchill said of Britain: "This was their finest hour!"

Conscription and a coalition government is the only answer!

DESECRATED BEAUTY SPOTS

Sir,—Having just returned from a tour as far north as Forbes Landing, I feel moved to protest against the manner in which the amenities of certain areas have been (and are being) destroyed. Surely it might have been possible to stop logging operations in the vicinity of beautiful Cameron Lake, for instance, where the commencement of the trail to Mt. Arrowsmith has been practically obliterated by "slash." Even if, as I was informed, the trail is recut, there will still remain the melancholy sight of raw bleeding stumps instead of the noble monarchs of the grove which formerly stood there, affording a pleasant sight to the eye and grateful shade in Summer.

And what can one say of the approach to the really magnificent Elk Falls? Having seen a great many show places, I can truthfully write that never have I seen such an appallingly dreary area of dead timber and blackened stumps as exists there in all directions, outside the small and delightful park surrounding the falls themselves. Can the tourist bureau not do something to prevent other beauty spots from being desecrated in the same way? I would like to remind them of the old saw, "You cannot have your cake and eat it, too."

ROGER GOODLAND.

WAR EFFORT

Sir,—One wonders with increasing gravity just why Mr. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister, hesitates to make the case of Canada's war effort stronger?

Why does he hesitate? What is the reason for this?

Does he not see, not know the writing upon the wall? So plain for us all to know and read.

For myself, I ask Mr. King to step forward and tell us, the people, more frankly, more openly, of Canada's real position in relation to the current conflict. I ask the Prime Minister of this Dominion of ours to step bravely forward and truly enlighten us, the people, without more ado.

Make it strong, Mr. King, make it strong. We can stand it; we can take it, we people of the West.

FOR AIR RAID VICTIMS

Sir,—May we, through your paper, express our thanks to all those who assisted in any way in our Easter Sunrise Service, particularly the B.C. Electric Co., the Salvation Army Band, Saanich Municipality, the Police and the Parks Board.

The offering on Mount Tolmie was designated for the Lord Mayor's Fund and for air raid victims. We are pleased to say that this has been largely augmented from other sources. Appended is a financial statement:

Offering, Easter Sunday morning	$260.00
Through St. Alban's Church	200.00
St. George's Day Service	155.42
Total	$615.42

This amount was sent in full through the Bank of Montreal on April 26 to the Lord Mayor's Fund, London. The cost of cabling and all other expenses have been borne by the Ministerial Association.

PARTING POLITICS

Sir,—Is there nothing the people of Canada can do to stop the waste and extravagance of the Government? Can we not stop Mr. Mackenzie King from playing party politics when the lives of the British people are at stake? It is shameful, the attitude of the Government. If, as I have read, Mr. King is going to make a shake-up at a critical time to make it look good for the party, it is time it was stopped. He should be made to go to the Old Country and see for himself what total war means. But he is proving that he is not strong enough. His record of the last war is showing more clearly in his conduct in this.

If it is true that the present Government is only what the Canadians deserve then God help us and Britain. Why have Ottawa and Montreal fired our own people and taken on Chinese and Japanese stenographers? Why does Mr. Pattullo spend so much of the people's money traveling, and why has a Greek ship that has been here for months suddenly have orders to load a cargo of scrap iron and sail to Japan? Our Provincial Government needs to do a lot of house-cleaning too. The money being spent for things that have nothing to do with the war effort is shameful. As for profiteering there is a lot of that, too, as everyone knows. Party politics as now operated are nothing but gangsterism with a fancy name.

I am not a Red sympathiser, but I can see plainly that our present set-up has got too far away from the principles of decency and right thinking. I pray something can be done before once again the cry will be "too late."

TAKE THOUSANDS OF PRISONERS

bomber the Italians still possessed the victors related.

Twenty-two burned out skeletons of Italian bomber and fighter planes lie among the ruins of the hangars at Kombolcha airdrome and in the valley below Dessie.

The South Africans jested that "26" was their lucky number, they having taken Mogadiscio, capital of Italian Somaliland on February 26, Harar on March 26 and Dessie on April 26.

TEN-DAY BATTLE

The battle for Dessie began April 17 in the 10,000-foot mountains which enfold this region like a gigantic, rumpled quilt.

In a battle which the victors said was the fiercest of their entire campaign, they smashed the positions which the Italians had counted on holding for at least three months.

The surrounding mountains are honeycombed with caves in which the Italians cached thousands of tons of food, fuel and ammunition.

One British officer said the positions were so strong "I could have defended them with sixty-five baboons if given a week to train them."

INTENSE ARTILLERY DUEL

The South Africans, outnumbered three to one in men and guns, opened with an intense artillery duel. For six days the cannon blazed away in a "Little Somme." When it was over the South Africans had taken forty-four Italian guns and killed at least 400 men.

In four days, Dessie had fallen and the remnants of Aosta's Northern army was struggling eastward into the Ethiopian wilderness.

An estimated 20 per cent was captured, and today the South Africans were busy counting their prisoners, rounding up strays, and tallying mounds of macaroni and stacks of Italian machine guns. They themselves lost less than fifty killed.

Remaining Italian resistance apart from wandering bands, was said now to centre along the Omo River gorge, southwest of Addis Ababa and in Gondar in the north.

Princess Pat Opens Recreation Hut for Troops Overseas

R. P. Bennett Makes Presentation as Chairman of Canadian Red Cross—Other Distinguished Canadians Present at Ceremony in England

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 30 (CP).—Presenting an army recreation hut to overseas troops as chairman of the Canadian Red Cross, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett said, "we must look to distant horizons in this war, for it is a conflict not only for supremacy of our own people, but that the world may be better for all freedom-loving people."

The Red Cross donated $2,500 towards the hut, built by the Dominions Hospitality Organization for Soldiers of the Empire. It is located in the Second Canadian Division area.

Lady Patricia Ramsay, who, Mr. Bennett said, was "Princess Charming as well as Princess Patricia to all Canadians during her all-too short stay in the Dominion," formally opened the hut.

Major-General Victor Odlum, Second Division commander, was present, and Colonel R. J. Manion, former Conservative leader, who now is in England surveying work of auxiliary services, attended and chatted with Mr. Bennett and Senior Second Division officers.

SYMBOL OF PEOPLE

"This is not a mere centre of recreation for overseas soldiers," Mr. Bennett told the audience of women canteen workers. "I trust you will look upon it as a symbol of a great people fighting the world over for liberty. It is a symbol we have for this old Motherland for which our sons came to fight.

"This island now is all that stands between serfdom and slavery, and freedom and liberty."

The one-time Conservative leader paid tribute to English women in the services, who devote their time to helping troops by working in canteens and troop centres.

"In my opinion," he said, "it would be impossible to carry on the conflict without the women in this war."

As a guard of honor from a Western Canada regiment stood outside, Princess Patricia declared the hut open.

"Recreation plays a very important part for our fighting men in times such as these, especially for troops from overseas, and I hope this hut will contribute to their welfare," she said. "I will always have a spot dear in my heart for Canadian soldiers and people."

VOTE OF THANKS

General Odlum moved a vote of thanks to Princess Patricia and said "she is one woman in the Empire, apart from Our Gracious Queen, for whom Canadians love to fight. Men died in the other war for her and they will die for her again."

A Canadian private, Alfred (Steve) Brodie, of Toronto, expressed appreciation of the Empire troops in an able speech for which Mr. Bennett congratulated him.

SAYS ASSENT WAS FORCED

While Canada was straining every nerve in the greatest struggle of human history the Pattullo Administration for eighteen months of the war had proceeded without real recognition of that fact, Mr. Maitland declared. The last budget presented to the Legislature had called for collections of $35,000,000 in the current year and the greatest outlays in the province's history. Provincial expenditures had even been boosted by $700,000 more than in the year before.

REFUSED TO CONSIDER

At the same time, he asserted, leaders of the administration had gone to Ottawa to give a studied refusal to every effort made by the Dominion to bring about co-ordination and co-operation between Dominion and Provincial Governments in financial affairs. With taxation as the chief motive power behind all war effort the Provincial Administration had refused to consider the Rowell-Sirois recommendations at the national conference called in January of this year. Premier Pattullo, he said, had gone to Ottawa on that occasion with a printed refusal in his pocket, taking his stand beside Premier Hepburn and Premier Aberhart at the conference which had broken up.

Attacked on every side for that attitude and pounded by the Liberal press, the Administration had sought to explain its stand away, Mr. Maitland continued. Blocked at the national conference the Dominion had taken the only course open to it. It had imposed the direct taxation necessary to Canada's war effort and there was no other way. The Provincial Administration had suffered a death-bed repentance, and had acquiesced after there was nothing else left that it could do, Mr. Maitland declared.

CONSERVATIVE STAND

From the outset of the conflict the Provincial Conservative party had insisted that the war effort came first, and that it was above and beyond all partisan political considerations. As leader of the Opposition, he had offered a complete political truce only to find after eighteen months that it was one-sided and that "fence-building" was still going on.

In the middle of the national crisis, the Pattullo Administration had set about "looking for oil in a $500,000 broken hole in the Peace River", had perpetuated and maintained a $100,000 utilities board directly under Government control and had even maintained on salary the defunct health insurance commission. Provincial outlays had been increased by $700,000 in the last budget, and within the last few days a fresh $1,500,000 road programme, "to be spread around a little at a time in all ridings," had been announced on what might be the eve of a general election. That, said Mr. Maitland, was the record.

OAK BAY GREETINGS

Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, speaking briefly as president of the Oak Bay Conservative Association, conveyed the congratulations of Oak Bay Conservatives to the Victoria group on the opening of their new headquarters. "People everywhere had grown tired of spinelessness in the direction of the country's war effort, and were demanding that something be done to improve the situation throughout."

President Bevan-Pritchard declared the new headquarters open formally and acted as host at a diversified programme of entertainment, followed by refreshments.

Organization matters were discussed briefly in connection with the coming campaign, which Conservatives expect to see this year, possibly in the early Fall.

The thanks of the meeting were expressed to the Russian Ballet School for several dancing numbers and to Mrs. Sherratt and Mrs. Noel for songs and accompaniments.

B.C. Delegation Remains in East For Negotiation

PREMIER Pattullo and Hon. John Hart remained at Ottawa yesterday discussing details in connection with the major change in Provincial financing which will come as [illegible] budget. By wire, Hon. John Hart confirmed the Provincial Treasury's assent to the transfer of income taxes and other changes, on the understanding that they are for the duration of the war.

CHORAL GROUP GIVES RECITAL

Arion Club Presents Enjoyable Programme in Oak Bay United Church

Members of the Arion Club, led by P. H. Hughes, delighted an audience in Oak Bay United Church last night with a diversified programme which included Richard Genee's novel, "Italian Salad," and Audran's "The Torpedo and the Whale."

The choir, appearing under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church, opened the programme with W. Hollingworth's "Here's Life and Health," followed by Coleridge-Taylor's stirring "Drake's Drum" and "Hey Robin," by Geoffrey Shaw.

Turning to an old Highland air, the club then sang "My Ain Hoose," following this with "In the Gloaming" and "Lochinvar," in which E. Ord and S. Chiverall, respectively, were soloists. The first half of the programme closed with Donizetti's well-known "Sextette From Lucia."

In the performance of Genee's "Italian Salad," Tom Kelway, soloist, represented the conductor of an orchestra and the choir the instrumentalists. The song's words were a melange of Italian musical terms, and the choir repeated the selection before rendering Protheroe's setting of the "Shadow March" to words by Robert Louis Stevenson.

The adventures of Lewis Carroll's creation were related in G. W. Chadwick's "Jabberwocky," which the choir followed with Stephen Foster's "I Dream of Jeanie."

F. Robinson's "Knowledge" was followed by Audran's "The Torpedo and the Whale," in which S. White, soloist, sang of the plight of a North Sea whale which attempted to brush aside a British torpedo in the belief that it was a fish. D. Stewart took the solo part in Schultz's "Forest Harps," and Maunder's "Border Ballad" closed the programme. The choir was capably accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. C. A. Warn.

SPEEDING EMPIRE PRODUCTION!

Casting a 7-ton "Monel" ingot in the Huntington, West Virginia, Works of The International Nickel Company, Inc. From this ingot will be fashioned a shaft 40 ft. long and 24 ins. in diameter.

CANADIAN NICKEL
IS A STAUNCH ALLY OF THE EMPIRE CAUSE

Forty acres of surging industrial activity! Forty acres of crushers, grinders, roasting and melting furnaces; of steam hammers raining eight-ton blows on white-hot ingots; of five-foot ribbons of "Monel" sheet curling from the rolling mills; of miles of rods, tubing, wire and other shapes! Such is the Huntington Works of The International Nickel Company, strategically located in West Virginia because the surrounding industrial districts comprised the world's greatest market for "Monel" and Nickel, and because an abundance of low-cost, sulphur-free natural gas was available there.

Today this mill and its mother mines, smelters and refineries in Canada are sending an ever-increasing flow of Nickel to industrial Canada, United States and Britain. Since the front line of battle is in our industries, the 20,000 employees of The International Nickel Company take their places proudly alongside our armed forces. In time of peace, Canadian Nickel assists industry to achieve increased efficiency and economy. In war, it is of vital help in the Empire's drive to victory.

COAST BRIGADE CALLS FOR MEN

5th Artillery Regiment Will Open Recruiting Office Here Today

The 5th (BC) Coast Brigade RCA, the oldest defence unit in Western Canada, needs men to take the place in local forts of those soldiers volunteering for overseas service, and in order to get them will open a gunners' recruiting depot this morning at 814 Government Street.

The depot will be open every day between the hours of 10 a.m. and 10 p.m., in charge of Lieut. H. W. O. Lambert, assisted by Sergeants Norman Baker and Ivor Fuller, all of whom returned recently from Great Britain, where they served for six months with British artillery units in the Battle of Britain.

Brigade officers are confident that many men in Victoria now thinking about joining the forces will welcome this opportunity of signing up with a regiment that has a long and honorable record behind it both in Canadian and overseas military history.

Men of good physique and character are wanted, and will be taken on active home service immediately. Service overseas is optional, not compulsory. Gunners have the choice of serving with the guns or with searchlight batteries of the brigade.

The 5th Band will play at intervals outside the recruiting depot each day. Tonight at 8 o'clock the band will lead men of the unit on a march through town. There will be frequent parades during the next week or two.

KILL HELPLESS IN COLD BLOOD

of air bubbles into the veins, is contained in the December issue of Acta Apostolicae Sedis, the official monthly publication of the Vatican, Straight says.

The story behind the few lines in the Vatican publication, according to Straight, is this:

"There is a big hospital near Urach, in Wuerttemburg. In September the priests of Urach noted that the elderly people in the hospital were dying in increased numbers, and dying on certain days. These priests discovered that systematic euthenasia was being practised in this hospital. The old and incurably ill were being killed off by the injection of small quantities of poison into their veins.

"Later, according to the accounts of these priests, the Gestapo found that poisoning was unnecessarily expensive. Gas chambers were used, the priests reported, until the Nazis found an even simpler method which involved no cost at all. Air bubbles were injected into the veins of those chosen to die, and death was instantaneous when the bubbles reached the heart. Relatives of the victims were never told, of course. They merely received a small box containing the victim's ashes."

to North Africa to bolster defences of the Suez Canal and Egypt.

Foreign Secretary Eden said the Government was aware of the "dangers of German infiltration of North Africa and has tried to open the eyes of the French Government to the danger this presents to them."

His latest information showed the number of Germans on the Armistice Commission in French Morocco had been increased to about 200 and, while refusing to be drawn into a discussion about Spanish Morocco, Mr. Eden said "there is evidence of the recent entry of a number of German nationals and the continuation of German propaganda" in the Spanish territory.

The Foreign Secretary also said that the Greek Government on April 21 had advised Britain to withdraw her expeditionary force because further sacrifice would be in vain. That was about the time Greece's trapped and exhausted Epirus and Macedonian armies had begun negotiating a surrender.

Mr. Churchill said he gave this information on the Greek withdrawal because of the "extravagant claims made by the enemy." A full dress debate on the episode will be held next week.

"Up to the time when evacuation was seen to be inevitable," he said, "we had landed about 60,000 men in Greece, including one New Zealand and one Australian division.

"Of these, at least 45,000 have been evacuated.

"Considering that our air force was, through superiority of the enemy force, compelled to leave the airfields from which it could alone effectively cover the retreat of our troops, and that only a small portion could be used to cover the points of embarkation, this must be considered remarkable."

THE GREEK MESSAGE

The Foreign Office news department issued this translation of the Greek message to the British Government:

"The Greek Government, while expressing to the British Government and to the gallant Imperial troops their gratitude for the aid which they have extended to Greece in her defence against the unjust aggressor, are obliged to make the following statements:

"After having conducted for more than six months a victorious struggle against strongly superior enemy forces, the Greek army has now reached a state of exhaustion and moreover finds itself completely deprived of certain resources indispensable for the pursuit of war such as munitions, motorized vehicles and airplanes—resources with which it was in any case inadequately supplied from the outbreak of hostilities.

IMPOSSIBLE TO CONTINUE

"This state of things makes it impossible for the Greeks to continue the struggle with any chance of success and deprives them of all hope of being able to lend some assistance to their valiant Allies.

"At the same time, in view of the importance of preserving the British contingents in view of the limited aviation at their disposal and in view of the extent of the front heroically defended by them, the Imperial forces have an absolute need for the assistance of the Greek army, without which they could not prolong their own resistance for more than a few days.

"In these conditions the continuation of the struggle, while incapable of producing any useful effect, would have no other result than to bring about the collapse of the Greek army and bloodshed useless to the Allied forces.

"Consequently the Royal Government is obliged to state that further sacrifice of the British expeditionary force would be in vain and that its withdrawal in time seems to be rendered necessary by circumstances and by interests common to the struggle."

Secure Bird Pictures—Colored motion pictures of nesting seagulls and cormorants roosting on bare rock islands in the Gulf of Georgia were secured by the Provincial Museum party, under Dr. G. C. Carl, which returned yesterday from a short field expedition. C. D. Ferris, provincial photographer, handled the cameras while Dr. Carl collected ornithological data. Wild fowl, the party reported, were hard to approach, and could only with difficulty be coaxed before the lens of the recording camera.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.

The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.

The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

CITY DEBATES SALE OF LAND

An offer of the Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. to purchase 3.1 acres of property bounded by Dallas Road, and Ontario Street adjacent to Rithet Piers, was discussed by the City Council in camera yesterday afternoon. The land is necessary for the company's enlarged shipbuilding programme.

Considerable debate was held on a suggestion of the company that the city accept 75 per cent of the price asked for the valuable waterfront property. Further negotiations were left in hands of the lands committee, headed by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar.

Instructions were given the city solicitor to draw up a by-law to alter the classification of the property in question from light to heavy industries. A public hearing on the by-law will be held in the near future.

Sales of reverted property proposed by the lands committee and ratified by the council were: Southwest corner of Niagara and Boyd Streets, $200; southeast corner of Victor and Ryan Streets, $50, and a lot on the west side of Blackwood Street between Kings Road and Bay Street, $50.

On motion of Alderman John A. Worthington, Dan and Alex Campbell were given notice to vacate Thetis Lake Park by May 31. Tenders for the refreshment, boating and fishing tackle concession will be discussed by the water board on the return of Mayor Andrew McGavin from the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities convention at Ottawa.

Mrs. David Spencer Wins Rose Bowl in Annual Table Show

Nearly 2,000 Visitors See Charmingly Arranged Display—Popularity Awards Are Won by Mrs. M. Bridgman and Mrs. McTavish

THE table arranged by Mrs. Montague Bridgman was accorded the largest number of votes and won the popularity award in the annual decorated tables display held yesterday at the Empress Hotel by the Junior W.A. of the Royal Jubilee Hospital. The popularity prize for the best flower arrangement other than a table went to Mrs. D. D. McTavish.

The display which continued all afternoon until last evening when at 10 o'clock the prizes were presented to the winners by Lady Barnard, was an outstanding success, attended by nearly 2,000 persons, and served as a delightful opening event in the annual Spring Garden Festival, which has attracted a large number of visitors to the city, and which is one of Victoria's most important undertakings.

EFFECTIVE SETTING

The ballroom and adjoining foyer made a delightful setting for the display of tables and bowls of flowers, which attracted the interest and admiration of the huge crowd of visitors attending. In addition to the competitive exhibits, many lovely flower arrangements had been done by Mrs D. D. McTavish, which made an effective background and served to enhance the general beauty of the rooms.

The task of judging the tables was by no means an easy one. This was undertaken by Viscountess Byng of Vimy; Mrs W. H. Malkin who came over from Vancouver for the occasion and Mrs Gilbert D. Brown, Wenatchee, Wash. All were enthusiastic in their words of commendations for the display as a whole, and admitted that they had found their task no easy one with so much that was beautiful from which to choose. The judges were welcomed on their arrival by Mrs W. B. Wilson, president of the auxiliary and by Mrs. P. A. C. Cousland, the general convener.

The prize for the best table in the show went to Mrs David Spencer, who had arranged a dessert course with lovely old Spode plates, crystal glasses, crystal candelabra with green tapers, a central bowl of pink roses and a shell-pink damask tablecloth. In the international "class" Mrs Spencer was [illegible] Godfrey and Mrs. Clark won the second prize for their Japanese arrangement of dwarf maple as a centrepiece.

In Class "A" formal luncheon group, Mrs Ray Castle won first prize, for her table, spread with a pale yellow damask cloth, exquisite old Spode plates, Empire candelabra with yellow tapers and a gilt and crystal centrepiece filled with lilies of the valley and yellow alyssum.

Mrs W. B. Wilson won second prize for a table arranged with a pale pink cloth, silver candelabra, a charming old floral design dessert service and a low crystal plaque of deep pink hydrangea and pink lilac. Mrs Hampden Ross was awarded "special mention" for her all-white table, with an exquisite centrepiece of madonna lilies, white sweet peas and stock.

OTHER CLASSES

Mrs J. A. Burchett was winner of the dessert course Class "C," a lovely mixture of flowers in an old compot, flanked by dishes of fruit, making an effective setting. Mrs J. D. D. Campbell won second prize, her table of crystal and lovely china being arranged with deep rose-pink rhododendrons.

Class "D," luncheon or breakfast table, was won by Mrs C. T. Beard who used bright pottery and a harmonizing mixture of poppies, bluebells, London Pride and other garden flowers to carry out the color scheme. Mrs. Frank Paterson winner of the second prize, used bright-hued marigolds to harmonize with her Mexican pottery table, which was very effective.

Class "E," the special occasions tables, was won by Mrs Zoe Huse, who used an original arrangement of Calla lilies and a mask, to suggest a masquerade party. Mrs. I. M. Knox, winner of the second prize, had stepped wholly into the machine age in her novel and altogether striking table arrangement suitable for a dinner given for members of the automobile industry. Using a flywheel as centrepiece, Mrs. Knox had arranged pineapples, lemons, grapes and laurel leaves, and motor parts served as candlesticks, ash trays, match holders and place cards. The dull grey of steel was unusually effective on a green rayon satin cloth, and the display attracted widespread interest.

SPECIAL CLASSES

In the class "not over 25 cents," Mrs Darcus Hodder won the prize for her children's Easter party. In class "G," tea or coffee tables, Mrs. Leckie Ewing was the first prize-winner, roses and lily of the valley being used with her china and her silver tea service. Mrs. J. A. Reynolds used columbine to carry out the attractive coloring of her lustre tea service.

In the displays of individual flower arrangements set against a turquoise blue background, Mrs G. W. Tindall won first prize with an artistic display of Calla lilies and iris combined with ivy leaves, a duck figurine standing at one side. "Special mention" was given to Miss I. Allen's graceful display of schizanthus in exquisitely blended coloring. Against a green screen the display of Calla lilies by Mrs. J. R. McIlree won first place. Mrs Allan Wyllie was given "special mention" for her arrangement of Iceland poppies, rock daphne and wallflower in rose-pink coloring.

A new class this year, the interpretation of jewels, was won by Mrs Victor Bartholomew, who used iris buds and succulent rock plant to reflect the milky jade green of a piece of jade set on a teakwood base. Mrs E. C. Lewis was given second prize for her "necklace" which outlined a lovely old lace collar.

A contest was held during the afternoon, in which visitors were asked to estimate the number of flowers in a large collection which had been arranged by Miss Pooley. This was won by Mr Phillip, whose estimate was 387.

Assisting the general convener, Mrs Cousland in the arrangements for the display were Mrs E. Goodall, Mrs H. Brown, Mrs H. W. N. Moorhouse and Miss Claire Layborn. Members of the Junior W.A. took charge of tickets, the contest and general arrangements for the afternoon.

Three hundred of the visitors had arranged tea parties in the lounge which had been decorated with iris and snapdragon and a special floral basket, which was much admired, was sent as a gift from the Posy Shop.

During the afternoon the model of the "Scottish Gift House" for which members of the Women's Auxiliary to The Canadian Scottish Regiment are selling tickets, was on display and attracted a great deal of attention. The model, with its surrounding garden was the work and gift of Mr R. Clack.

A party of 100 came from Washington State and in the group are Mrs Harry G. Sims, president of the Washington State Federation of Garden Clubs, and Mrs. Gilbert Brown, Wenatchee, who was one of the judges at the display. Mrs. Charles Welch, wife of the editor of The Tacoma News-Tribune, was welcomed by many friends and has attended every garden festival held here. Mr. W. R. Groft, Cloverdale, Mrs. Fred Bleeg and Mrs. R. E. Berst, Portland, Mrs Sue Dahl, Mrs S. Farmer and Mr and Mrs J. W. Lee, Tacoma.

Weddings

LOCKE—KEOGH

The marriage took place at 7.30 o'clock last evening, at the residence of Rev. James Hood, the officiating minister, between Frances Marion, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs T. J. Keogh, 86 Dallas Road, and Mr William Locke, son of Mr and Mrs. William Locke, Sooke, V.I.

The bride wore a "heavenly" blue dress with navy blue accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and lily of the valley and Mr and Mrs John Higginbotham were the attendants. A small reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr and Mrs Locke will make their home in Victoria.

STACEY—LEE

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Canon Chadwick in St. John's Church at 8 o'clock last evening between Grace Ellen, only daughter of the late Mr. William Lee and Mrs. F. R. Crase, 1290 Holloway Street, and Lance-Corporal Arthur Carrick Stacey, 2nd Battalion, The Canadian Scottish Regiment, only son of Mr and Mrs. P. O. Stacey, Salt Spring Island. Mr Ian Galliford presided at the organ, and as the register was being signed Mrs. Leonard Batchelor sang "Because."

Mr Craze gave the bride away, and she looked charming in a frock of mauve chiffon with beige accessories and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia rosebuds and lily of the valley. Miss Dorothy Craze was bridesmaid, in a pretty rose and blue ensemble with a corsage spray of carnations and sweet peas, and Mr George Edgar was best man. The ushers were Mr. Alfred Lee and Mr Lawrence Creech. Baskets of mauve lilac and narcissi made a fragrant setting for the ceremony, and posies of pink and blue forget-me-nots tied with white bows marked the guest pews.

At a small reception at the home of Mr and Mrs Craze, the guests were welcomed by the bride's mother, in a rose gown, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in grey, who both wore navy blue accessories and corsage bouquets of pink carnations. Spring flowers were attractively arranged in the rooms, and the supper table was covered with a lace cloth and adorned with vases of lily of the valley, pale pink tapers and centred with the cake. For a honeymoon Up-Island, the bride chose a smart apple green outfit.

Lance-Corporal and Mrs Lee will return to Victoria to make their home for the present.

GAS SCARCE

According to one writer, "the war has taken the divine spark out of motoring." Well, the spirit, anyway.

Mrs. Watts Ends Greek Art Series

Mrs Diana Watts, in her third and last lecture, given last night at the Victoria Little Theatre, traced the evolution of the Greek spirit to the fifth century B.C.

Giving Crete as the inspiration and origin of Greek art, Mrs Watts showed how, from 2500 B.C. until 1400 B.C. the Greek civilization advanced and grew, then, apparently due to the invasion of the barbarians, for 800 years, there is no record whatever of the life and development in Greece.

Mrs Watts touched lightly on the ideals and theories of the various Greek philosophers and quoted many beautiful extracts from the works of the most famous Greek poets. In concluding her lecture Mrs Watts repeated the dance of the Pallas Athene which she gave during her first lecture and which she had been asked to do again.

Mrs. David Spencer's Table, Which Was Awarded the Silver Rose Bowl for the Best Table in the Show and Also the Best in the International Class at the Decorated Table Display Held Yesterday at the Empress Hotel by the Junior W A. of the Jubilee Hospital.

Floral Art Displayed In Painting

The exhibition of flower paintings by the noted English artist, Emily Sartain, opened yesterday at the Empress Hotel, coinciding opportunely with the decorated tables display and garden week, which are attracting many out-of-town visitors to Victoria.

The flower paintings of Miss Sartain, perfect in every detail, are a joy to the horticulturist, the artist and the lover of flowers. Here is found the exact reproductions of flowers beautifully arranged, their exquisite coloring and remarkable choice of background giving them a fragile beauty and delicacy rarely attained in a painting.

PERFECTION ATTAINED

Each petal, vein and leaf of the flowers is perfectly finished, and, quoting the artist's own words, "I just paint them as see them. I never paint anything from memory, nor do I ever imagine anything, not even a leaf." The key to her unusual talent can be found there, in her attention to detail coupled with a remarkable sensitiveness to the beauty of flowers and blossoms.

Miss Sartain brought with her from Vancouver a large collection of paintings all done since she has been in Canada and her work is already known and recognized as outstanding.

JAPONICA OUTSTANDING

Included in the exhibit are paintings of dogwood, freesias, Christmas roses and gardenias, all white, yet for which the artist has chosen a white background. The effect is astonishing, giving a fragile depth to the flowers that is almost unbelievable. Perhaps the most beautiful of the collection is a large painting of a vase of pyrus Japonica. With her extraordinary skill for exact reproduction and her fine sensibility in coloring, Miss Sartain has made of the Japonica, painted against a white background, a masterpiece.

The exact opposite of this painting is one of three shades of delphinium, rose, pale blue and dark blue, painted on a background, but where the flowers stand out with ex- [illegible]

ORIGINAL TREATMENT

An unusual picture is that of yellow arum, commonly called skunk cabbage. Miss Sartain has treated this subject in a most charming manner. The arum growing out of damp mossy earth is so vivid and real, and the surrounding moss and marshy plants so perfect, that the picture could almost be termed "a gnome's view of the flowers." Another example of Miss Sartain's originality is her painting of some sprays of apple blossoms, where large velvety bumble bees fly among the flowers.

In explaining her method of painting flowers, Miss Sartain described how she paints from the centre of a bouquet working out toward the ends of the branches and, as she finishes, she paints the blossoms which have already fallen. These, she said, look far more realistic, when copied from the actual wilted bloom, just where it falls.

[illegible] flowers native to Vancouver Island are of great local interest. Miss Sartain will continue her exhibition of paintings until May 6.

ENGAGEMENTS

ANGUS—GROGAN

Mr L. A Grogan, 2580 Bowker Avenue, announces the engagement of his daughter, Kathleen, to Lieutenant David Angus, R.C.N.V.R., second son of Mr and Mrs. Richard Angus, 2650 Bowker Avenue. The marriage will take place in Halifax, N.S., in May.

Girls who abstain from rouge and powder are usually shining examples to their friends.

PUPILS TO PARTICIPATE

Pupils of Miss Betti Clair and Miss Florence Clough are participating today in dances attending the crowning of Esquimalt's May queen at the Memorial Park. Through an error, an item in Wednesday's Colonist stated that Miss Dorothy Cox's dancing students were among those appearing at the ceremony.

P.-T.A. Activities

HAPPY VALLEY

The Happy Valley Association is holding a "truth or consequence" quiz programme in the Luxton Hall on Saturday at 8 p.m., the proceeds will be given to local and war charities. A concert and dance will follow with music being supplied by the naval and local old-time orchestras. Refreshments will be served.

Mobile Canteen to Be Gift From Club Women

The Women's Canadian Club executive has decided to raise money for a mobile canteen to be purchased in London by the Canadian Women's Club of London, operated by the Canadian Y.M.C.A. and staffed, where possible, by members of the London Women's Canadian Club. An appeal has been made throughout Canada for funds to purchase canteens.

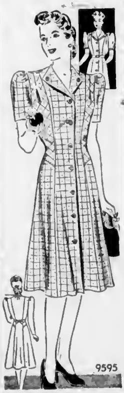
A canteen costs £250 (approximately $1,100) and the Victoria club is asking each of its members to give as much as possible. Members are asked to leave their donations, together with their names, either with ladies on the day of the meetings or at Fletcher's music store. The members of the executive are telephoning each member of the club and will arrange to collect their donation if it cannot be given in with their names at the meetings. Further information may be obtained on Tuesday, May 6 at the Empress Hotel.

"The Romance of Australia" is the subject chosen by Mrs Lillie Beirne, who will speak on Tuesday next. Mrs. Beirne is an ardent Australian feminist and lived in England in 1906 and 1907, and is one of the original group working with Mrs Pankhurst in London. She is said to be an interesting and dynamic speaker, and has traveled widely in New Zealand, Canada and the United States. She has addressed the Canadian Women's Clubs in Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick recently, and members of the Eastern clubs found her very stimulating. Mrs. Beirne has also been speaking in the United States from New York to California, and has been enthusiastically received.

Australia, as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations is of particular interest at this time. "Romance in Australia" should prove a subject of great interest to all the club members. Miss Marion Mitchell will be the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. C C Warn. Tuesday is annual guest day and each member is privileged to bring a guest.

Slimming Button-Front Dress

By MARIAN MARTIN



Pattern 9595

THERE'S no need to look matronly because of your size. Not when a frock like pattern 9595 by Marian Martin is yours for the easy making. Right at the fore of this season's style is the new long torso effect given by the curving seams that slimly mould your hips—an especially flattering treatment with the belt omitted. The side-front and back bodice sections are bias-cut for softness, and there are full-length panels to add to the tall-and-slim illusion. That front buttoning not only substracts inches from your appearance, but is practical for flat-spread ironing and quick dressing as well. Let the smart revers be button-trimmed or lace edged and choose long or short sleeves.

Pattern 9595 may be ordered only in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards 35-inch fabric.

Send 20c in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

CHAPTER XXII

Joan leaned weakly against the desk. She was beyond fear, beyond tears. There was a terrible silence in the office, a heavy dreadful silence. A silence intensified by Karl Miller's face: narrowed eyes, hard mouth. A silence made more tense by the stillness of Eric Strom's body upon the floor. Joan's mind slowly tried to put together the pieces of this horrible picture. Karl had shot Eric—killed him. Beyond that she knew nothing.

Her hand reached for the telephone. "I'm going to call the police!"

Karl seized her arm with a violence that almost jerked it from its socket. "You will do nothing of the kind!"

She stared at him. Was this the Karl Miller she knew? Was this hard-faced man the one who had held her tenderly and murmured "liebchen?"

Someone was pounding at the office door. Karl had locked it. Paul Sherman's voice came distinctly through the opaque glass panel. "Joan! What's going on in there? Let me in!"

Karl walked to the door and opened it. "There has been an unfortunate accident," he said calmly.

Paul's expression did not change.

Karl Miller smiled a little as he regarded his white-faced manager. "What happened?"

"Joan was perfectly justified. Eric has tried to annoy her before. You can testify to that yourself."

"Just what are you driving at?" Paul demanded.

Joan tried to speak, but her lips would not move. What was Karl saying? What did he mean?

"Joan shot Eric," Karl Miller stated.

His words were like an electric shock. "I didn't! Karl, you know I didn't! You did it yourself! You shot him!"

She ran to Paul and clutched his arm. "Paul, you believe me: don't you?"

Paul Sherman did not answer. He did not even look at her.

"Your fingerprints are on the gun," Karl said.

"But you told me to pick it up." She could not believe her ears. Karl, the man she loved and trusted had turned against her, accusing her of a murder he had committed. It was like some fantastic nightmare.

"I have no wish to turn you over to the police, Joan. We will forget about this little matter. No one need know what has happened."

Rage blazed in her green eyes. "But I haven't done anything. I'm not afraid to go to the police! And I'm going to tell them the whole story."

She was not speaking to the Karl Miller she had loved. This man was a stranger.

"You will not go to the police!" His voice cut like a whip.

Paul Sherman stared straight ahead of him, seeming to see or hear nothing.

"I will!" Joan cried hysterically, turning towards the door.

Karl's powerful arm stopped her and forced her roughly into a chair. "There are two reasons why you will not. The first—if you do I will testify that you shot Eric and Paul will back me up."

Her pleading eyes turned to Paul. He would not fail her.

But he said coolly, "I'm afraid that's right."

"But you can't! It isn't true! Karl, why are you doing this? Paul! Help me! I don't understand."

"Eric," Karl went on, "tried to double-cross me. You may observe for yourself what has happened to him. That is the second reason that you will do nothing."

Joan clutched the arms of her chair for support. She compressed her lips in a desperate attempt to control her emotions.

Karl Miller advanced towards her. "And if you double-cross me, you know what to expect. Now do you understand?"

"You wouldn't dare!" Joan said, but the sightless eyes of Eric Strom were silent testimony.

She covered her face with her hands and wept.

It couldn't be true. That wasn't Karl, her Karl! He must be driven by desperation to turn against her. It was some horrible mistake. In a moment it would be over. He would explain everything and hold her in his arms again.

But Karl was saying, "You know nothing! You will tell no one what has occurred here tonight. We will go on as if nothing has happened."

She wanted to laugh wildly, hysterically. "Go on as if nothing had happened?"

DIPLOMAT WILL GIVE LECTURE

Sir Robert Clive, G.C.M.G., To Speak at Empress Hotel on May 6

Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Clive, G.C.M.G., former ambassador to Brussels and Foreign Office representative on the Enemy Exports Committee, and a member of the Privy Council, will be heard in an address at the Empress Hotel on Tuesday, May 6, under the auspices of the National Council of Education.

Sir Robert has had a wide and varied diplomatic career extending over a period of almost forty years. At his lecture here, the speaker will give his interpretation of events leading up to the war and will discuss those problems of the Pacific in which the New World is so vitally interested.

After a year in the Foreign Office Sir Robert went to Rome as attache in 1903, and two years later as Third Secretary to Tokio. Since that time he has served in Cairo as Second Secretary; in Berne, Switzerland, Stockholm; Peking as Counsellor of Embassy, and British Consul-General in Munich in 1923. In 1925 he was transferred to Tangier.

SAW ORIENTAL DICTATORSHIP

From 1926 to 1931, Sir Robert was British Minister in Teheran. He arrived there a few months after Reza Khan, who had carried through a successful coup d'etat, was crowned Shah-in-Shah—the first of a new dynasty—and he was able to observe at close quarters the working of an Oriental dictatorship. He was made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1927.

In 1935, Sir Robert was appointed Minister to the Holy See to renew full diplomatic relations after an interlude of eighteen months. After only a year in Rome, Sir Robert was promoted to be Ambassador in Tokio, where relations with the Japanese Government were tending to become more difficult under the pressure of the Japanese Expressionist policy.

Three years later, in 1937, he was transferred to Brussels, his last post, where he remained until after the outbreak of war. Sir Robert returned to England in November, 1939, and for the next eight months served as the Foreign Office representative on the Enemy Exports Committee. He was made a Privy Councillor in 1939, and a G.C.M.G. in 1930.

TROUPE STAGES FINAL CONCERT

Members of Hudson's Bay Beaver Club Entertain Men at Fort Mary Hill

The Hudson's Bay Beaver Club Concert Party, which has been traveling to the various military camps during the past five months and entertaining officers and men of the three services, gave its final concert of the present season last Monday night when it performed to a crowded camp at Fort Mary Hill.

As in the past, the party received an enthusiastic ovation from the soldiers at the conclusion of the concert.

During the serving of refreshments in the sergeants' mess, C. Walton, genial master of ceremonies, received a presentation on behalf of the troupe in appreciation of his untiring work during the season.

The guest artist was William Harkness, the Canadian Houdini, who kept the audience in suspense with his mystifying acts. Those assisting on the programme were Rae Evenden and Frankie Rodwell, Messrs. T. Boulden, K. Cave, H. Morrison and Misses M. Henry, O. Ashton, H. Boulden, D. Hill, M. Whitten, V. Cloggie, M. Peden, H. Humber, B. Hogarth, B. Talbot, L. Frankham and M. Moore. Pat Campbell was the accompanist.

Fined for Failing To Keep Records

Ernest Goucher, manager of the Four Mile House restaurant, was fined the minimum penalty of $10 and costs of $2.50 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Provincial Court yesterday when he was found guilty on a charge of failing to keep a true record of the number of hours worked by the employees of the restaurant.

The defendant, whose case had been remanded from the last sitting of the Provincial Court, pleaded ignorance of the law, producing a wage book, which was claimed by Magistrate Hall to have been filled out since the summons.

WILL ACQUIRE KIPLING BOOK

Local Society to Study New Volume Depicting Life Of English Author

"Rudyard Kipling: A Study in Literature and Political Ideas," a recently-published volume by the English author, Edward Shanks, will be acquired by the Victoria Kipling Society to be used as a study book for their next Winter session. This was agreed on at the regular monthly meeting of the members, held on Tuesday evening in the Business and Professional Women's Clubroom.

After the business session Mrs. D. Hewitt White read the author's story, "False Dawn," a vivid and dramatic picture of life at an Indian station. Mrs. P. Oliver read the poem, "The Glory of the Garden." This was followed by discussion and a few brief excerpts from Edward Shanks' book and from two recently-published articles on the author.

The president gave notice that the next meeting in May will be the annual meeting. After the election of officers, Mrs. Reese Burns will give a dramatic rendering of Kipling's story, "The Man Who Was," and the evening will conclude with a social hour and refreshments.

Large Number of Leaders Decline On Wall Street

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—Wall Street traders let stocks slide today and turned to commodities, shoving the futures prices of many farm products well ahead.

Leading shares declined small fractions to three points, with more than 50 per cent of the traded stocks on the downside.

The Associated Press average of sixty selected stocks lost .4 of a point at 38.2. Transactions totaled 406,350 shares, compared with 511,-290 yesterday.

Among the few advancing share leaders was United Aircraft which stayed ahead all day largely as a result of its first quarter earnings and shipments statement and a $2 dividend.

U.S. Steel's favorable first quarter report, on the other hand, proved no market support and this stock dropped 1 1-8 points. Other prominent stocks on the downside included Youngstown, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Glenn Martin, International Nickel, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Eastman, Santa Fe, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

American Telephone lost 3 points, reaching a new 1941 low. Both American Airlines and Eastern Air-lines dipped more than three points.

According to Culbertson

Statistically minded bridge players could get a lot of fun out of estimating how many points are thrown away yearly through the failure of fellow players to capitalise their opportunities. The statisticians might start out by entering the 1,730 points thrown away by the declarer in the following hand:

*Blackwood convention.

South, a very optimistic player, chose to believe that one of North's two aces (shown by his five heart response to the Blackwood four no trump bid) would be in clubs, thus making it impossible for the opponents to snaffle two club tricks at the start. He was lucky that this was the case, also that the outstanding cards were favorably distributed, but he failed to capitalize his luck.

West opened the spade ten. Declarer won and led a heart. East won and had merely to exit in spades or diamonds in order to protect his club king for the eventual setting trick.

Declarer should have seen that the one hope for contract was to avoid a club loser. He should have cleared the spades and diamonds from his own hand and from dummy before leading a trump. With ten trumps in the combined hands there was a distinct chance that the ace of trumps was blank. If the defender with the trump ace also held the club king he would have to lead from the latter card to the combined tenace in the North-South hands. That, of course, is what should have happened. Dummy would discard one club on the third diamond and a heart lead then would force East on lead. If he returned a club declarer could win with the queen; if East returned a spade or a diamond declarer would ruff while discarding dummy's last club loser.

HEAD OF LEGION SCHOOL IN CITY

Lieut.-Colonel Wilfrid Bovey Confers With Local Officials Over Troop Education Plan

National chairman of the Canadian Legion educational services, Lieut.-Colonel Wilfrid Bovey, past president of the Canadian Association for Adult Education and of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, as well as being director of extra-mural affairs at McGill University, arrived in Victoria recently to confer with local officials of the legion who are assisting in providing educational facilities for the troops.

The visitor, who is registered at the Empress Hotel, indicated that the demands of the army of today are such that greater educational ability is required. The Canadian Legion is doing what it can to supply this need.

The educational courses, rendered chiefly by correspondence, are open to all members of the three services, and to the members of the Empire Training Scheme. Plans are now under consideration to provide books and equipment to Canadian prisoners in Germany.

The Department of Defence is co-operating with the legion in providing officers able to supply the educational features necessary, while the C.L.E.S. is handling the field work, the library and correspondence course offerings, and the other features.

Citizens Enjoy Extra Sunshine In Past Month

Victorians, whether they were aware of it or not, basked in a full twenty-four additional hours of sunshine this month than they usually encounter for the past thirty days, according to the weather report for the month issued yesterday. It was claimed that while Victorians experienced 232 hours of sunshine for the month, 1.25 inches of rainfall fell in the past thirty days, which was .07 inches more than normal.

The over-average precipitation was of small consolation, however, when it was announced that the rainfall for the first four months of the year was 5.10 inches below normal, having a gross total of but 5.86 inches.

The mean temperature for the past month was 52 degrees, or 4 degrees above normal, with a maximum of 73 degrees on the twenty-fifth of the month, and a minimum of 28 degrees on the sixteenth. The minimum grass-level temperature was 29 degrees, experienced on the eighteenth of the month.

TRAFFIC DISRUPTED

LONDON, April 30 (CP)—Traffic of the Danube River has been seriously disrupted by the invasion of Yugoslavia, the influential German newspaper Frankfurter Zeitung said today in an article quoted by the British Broadcasting Corporation. Considerable damage also was reported done to railway lines in Yugoslavia.

No letter to the Editor will be inserted except over the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception. No letter should exceed 300 words in length.

A COMPLAINT

Sir,—I would like, through your paper, to express my disgust at the Dominion Government's action, according to press reports, in awarding a contract of $100,000 to one big concern (Gordon Campbell, Ltd., of Vancouver) for uniforms required for the Royal Canadian Navy. I am a tailor and my employer and another Victoria tailor each had a $17,000 portion of the contract last year. To execute the order expediently they sacrificed both their own private trade (which incidentally went to Orientals), acquired necessary machinery and employed many people supporting families in Victoria, some who, like myself, had hitherto been in receipt of city relief. Now we are unemployed and the machinery is left on their hands.

I am an Imperial ex-serviceman and was a casualty in the last war. I don't think I could soldier this time because of the thorn in the flesh, and when a man is past forty he is not considered fit to keep up modern factory speed, however skillful a craftsman he happens to be. In view of these circumstances I don't think it is being British to give everything to big interests and leave generous citizens who helped them over the emergency, holding the bag.

JOSEPH W. BLACKLOCK.
431 Parry Street, Victoria, B.C., April 28, 1941.

PASSWORD

"Now remember, Pat," said a sergeant to an Irish soldier, "the password is Saxe—after Marshal Saxe, you know."

"Shure," said Pat. "Oi'll never forget it. Wasn't my father a miller and my uncle a coalman?"

Later in the day the Irishman was challenged. "Bags," he replied.

Gifts for Men on Naval Duty Should Be Addressed to Individuals

It has been pointed out to naval headquarters in Ottawa that officers commanding naval units afloat and naval barracks ashore experience certain difficulties in the distribution of comforts and gifts sent to sailors under their command, due to the fact that these are addressed to men from a certain town, district or province. The naval service is anxious to inform the people of Canada of the method which has to be followed by the authorities in distributing these gifts.

It should be clearly understood that service in the navy is not on regimental basis. A Vancouver man joining the navy through his local R.C.N.V.R. division will not be serving with the same group of young men who formed the class of recruits to which he belonged while attached to his local division.

When the recruits are called for active service either afloat or ashore they are not assigned to duty according to the district, town or province from which they originate, but in all cases according to their special abilities and the needs of the service. Consequently, in all naval units men from all parts of Canada share the same living space. Therefore in sending gifts such as cigarettes, apples and magazines, with the instruction that they should be given to British Columbians, Nova Scotians or ratings from another province or city, the sender places the authorities into a very awkward position due to the fact that it is impossible to discriminate between men of the same crew, simply because they are not from the same geographical district.

All gifts sent to sailors in the Royal Canadian Navy should be addressed to an individual. In the [illegible] many men as possible to benefit by his generosity, the donation should be addressed to a certain ship, to be distributed to all members of the crew. The commanding officer thereby finds it easy to share them equally among the crew without causing the misunderstanding which is liable to arise through discrimination.

The people of Canada have taken great interest in their troops serving their country and their generosity is very much appreciated by the men fighting the battle on the front line. The naval authorities are willing to fully co-operate with the folks back home in order that the flow of comforts may not be hampered. The people of Canada in turn should bear in mind the set-up of the navy and the conditions under which the naval men carry out their duties when sending gifts to the sailors.

Coach Lines Announce Additional Trips on Island Bus Routes

New additional trips will be operated, effective May 21, from Victoria to Up-Island points, it was announced yesterday by the Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

The Summer service will offer five round trips between Victoria and Nanaimo on Sundays and four round trips daily; three round trips between Nanaimo and Port Alberni daily, and two round trips between Nanaimo and Courtenay daily.

Departure times from Victoria will be changed on the above date also, and buses will leave the Broughton Street depot for Nanaimo and way points at 8 30 a.m., 1 30 p.m., 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. daily, with an additional trip at 8 30 p.m. on Sundays.

FEATURE OF SCHEDULE

A feature of the new schedule will be that all trips, with the exception of the 8 30 p.m. bus on Sundays, will make connections at Nanaimo for Courtenay and Port Alberni.

En route to Port Alberni, buses will leave the Nanaimo depot at 1.45 p.m., 6 30 p.m. and 9 p.m. daily, the 6 30 p.m. bus to Port Alberni being routed through Qualicum Beach, thus providing additional service to that district.

Buses will be scheduled to leave the Nanaimo depot for Courtenay at 1 45 p.m. and 9 p.m. daily, the former trip running through to Campbell River.

The extra service provided by these schedules has been devised to take care of the increased tourist and local resident travel which is anticipated this Summer to Vancouver Island resorts.

North Vancouver Company Acquires Additional Ways

A. C. Burdick has returned to the Coast from Montreal, where he was successful in negotiating an order for twenty-eight cargo ships to be constructed at his North Vancouver Ship Repairs plant, a subsidiary of the Pacific Salvage Company, Victoria, of which Mr. Burdick is president.

The ships involved represent a total value of $50,000,000, and are part of the $175,000,000 shipbuilding programme initiated for British Columbia shipyards by the newly-formed Wartime Merchant Shipping Limited, headed by H. R. McMillan.

Obtaining the order for the twenty-eight freighters means considerable expansion at the North Vancouver plant, and involves an outlay of approximately $700,000, Mr. Burdick announced. The new ground acquired will enable the company to provide for four ways. First keels are expected to be laid by July, and the ships all completed by late 1943.

WILL RESUME THEIR FIGHT

Dutch Soldiers and Sailors Reach Canada After Escaping From Nazis

VANCOUVER, April 30 (CP).—Two former soldiers in The Netherlands army and several Dutch seamen who were taken prisoners when the Germans invaded The Netherlands last year, have escaped to Canada and are ready to resume their fight against the Nazis.

The party arrived here last night from the Orient on the Japanese liner Hikawa Maru, en route to Ottawa, where they will be allotted new duties.

Members of the group said that after the Nazi occupation they were put to work in German shipyards and liberally plied with Nazi propaganda. Subsequently they were employed as seamen on freighters plying between Germany and Scandinavian ports.

Biding their time until they had won confidence, they deserted in Stockholm and were evacuated by way of the Baltic States and Russia to Canada.

Another member of the group was a seaman on a merchant ship sunk during the Battle of Narvik in Northern Norway. He and six companions swam ashore and hid almost naked behind a rock for fourteen hours in sub-zero temperatures until darkness enabled them to creep undetected to a nearby cottage for shelter.

NEW SERVICE IN OPERATION

First T.C.A. Mail Flight Between Toronto and New York Yesterday

VANCOUVER, April 30.—Announcement was made today by G. H. Clarke, district director of postal services, that Trans-Canada Air Lines operated its first air mail flight this morning between Toronto and New York. This service provides two air mail trips daily, each way.

Mr. Clarke emphasized the fact that the speedy New York air mail service will be of equal benefit to business on the Pacific Coast.

He particularly cited that a letter posted in time to reach the main postoffice at Vancouver before 4 p.m. would be in New York shortly after noon the following day under the new Toronto-New York air mail schedules. Air mail for Pacific Coast cities leaving New York at 9.15 p.m. (E.D.T.) would be included in the first afternoon delivery here the next day.

In addition there are morning flights from Vancouver and New York which will catch mail received too late for the evening schedules. The New York air mail schedules are also arranged to give direct connections at LaGuardia airport, with air lines serving the Eastern United States.

MARCH MONTH TO REMEMBER

Nova Scotia Marine Officer Survivor of Three Ship Sinkings

YARMOUTH, N.S., April 30 (CP).—Jack Ward, an officer in the merchant marine, will long remember the month of March in the Battle of the Atlantic, for he had three ships sunk under him. Ward is spending a vacation with his family here before joining another vessel.

The first ship met disaster, he said, when torpedoed at night without warning off the east coast of Britain. A second officer, he was standing watch on the flying bridge, and fell unconscious from the concussion. The first officer gave him up for dead when the ship was abandoned.

Ward said he awoke to the crashing of shellfire to find he was the only man left aboard. A Canadian-built corvette was engaging several Nazi E-boats, which had attacked after the convoy's destroyer escort had passed. He managed to lower a gig and finally was picked up by the corvette.

Morning revealed the wreckage of several of the E-boats, he said.

"BLOWN OUT OF WATER"

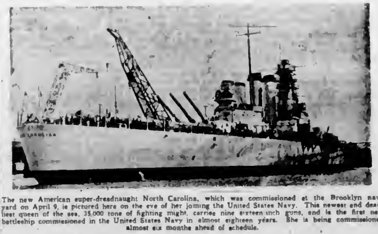
A few days later he was again on watch when his second merchantman was blown out of the water by one of the Nazis' new "bubble" mines, which explode from vibrations of a vessel's propeller.

He regained consciousness in the water while kept afloat by his life preserver. One of four men to survive, they were picked up by a small boat two hours later.

His third escape was from another night attack when his vessel was torpedoed by a lurking submarine in the South Atlantic. The crew took to the lifeboats and were picked up two days later and taken to the Canary Islands.

He described a new Nazi technique for air attacks on merchant convoys. The German planes fly low between the bows of ships so the vessels are unable to return their fire for fear of hitting other ships in the convoy.

Powerful Warship Joins U.S. Navy



The new American super-dreadnaught North Carolina, which was commissioned at the Brooklyn navy yard on April 9, is pictured here on the eve of her joining the United States Navy. This newest and deadliest queen of the sea, 35,000 tons of fighting might, carries nine sixteen-inch guns, and is the first new battleship commissioned in the United States Navy in almost eighteen years. She is being commissioned almost six months ahead of schedule.

Your Health and Your Weight

YOUR WEIGHT FOR HEIGHT SHOULD BE ACCORDING TO YOUR BUILD

By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

As I was not satisfied with the height and weight tables issued by insurance companies, I began to study the tables of students of two preparatory schools and one large university. I was also given access to the measurements of the members of the largest branch of the Y.M.C.A. in America. Try as I would I could not get a relationship between height and weights as I could with other relationships. Thus in ideal measurements for men we knew that the right upper arm (flexed or tightened) should be the same size as the neck and calf. The neck and calf are often the same size, but the upper arm is usually one to two inches smaller except in those who keep their arms developed by exercise or work. Another relationship is that between the chest expanded and the waist; the chest should be eight to ten inches larger than the waist, yet insurance companies admit that they have to be satisfied if the waist is not any larger than the chest instead of eight to ten inches smaller.

The reason I was unable to get a "correct" relationship between height and weight was because of the various "types" or "builds" of men. There is, of course, the "average" build, the "slender" or greyhound build, and the wide or bulldog build.

While this gives three types, it does not take into consideration the length of the legs and the length of the body. A fairer method or relationship would be between the height sitting and the weight; in fact, at one time the French army in estimating the strength and vitality of the recruit established a relationship between the height sitting, the weight, and the size (circumference) of the chest.

Being unable to work out a correct table for all types—slender, wide, long legs short body, short legs, long body and variations of these—I fell back on the idea of general body build simply subtracting a few pounds from the table in the case of slender individuals and even a little more where body was very short, and adding a few pounds in wide individuals and a few extra pounds where the body was long and the legs short. The same plan can be used for both men and women.

Some interesting figures are presented by Drs. S. S. Brucer and J. Mess, in The Journal of Laboratory and Clinical Medicine. These physicians gathered their information from the records of the former Life Extension Institute, Chicago, the West Side Young Women's Christian Association, Chicago, and the Student Health Service of the University of Chicago. There were 10,882 individual records analysed, 7,478 were of males and 3,405 of females.

Records show that weight alone in relation to height does not give the true idea as to whether or not the individual is of correct weight. These physicians used what is called the "ponderal index" (weight in pounds divided by height in inches). If weight in pounds is not at least equal to twice the height in inches, the individual is considered underweight. That is, a man sixty-seven inches in height (five feet, seven inches—average height of men) should weigh not less than twice or two times sixty-seven, that is 134 pounds. This is the least he should possibly weigh. If his index is more than 2, that is, his number of inches in height goes into the number of pounds of his weight 2.4 times, he is of medium or normal weight. If his height (number of inches) goes into his weight (number of pounds) more than 2.4 times, he is considered overweight.

Thus a man five feet seven inches, sixty-seven multiplied by 2.4, should weigh about 160 pounds at most even with long body and short legs. If his inches goes into his pounds more than 2.4 times he is considered overweight.

A woman five feet, four inches (sixty-four inches) should weigh 128 pounds. The point about the above figures is that they group all shapes or types together, making no allowance for slender, wide, and varying lengths of body and legs.

In other words, the best method of estimating your correct weight is to look at yourself in a mirror and remember that the above figures are for "average" individuals, estimate your weight according to your height and "build." Let your common sense be your guide.

Tommy Tit Holds Out Hope

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Blessed be whose words of cheer
Help put hope in place of fear

Hopelessly Welcome Robin pecked at a glistening, icy mass. Within he could see the berries, the cedar berries which meant food and warmth for him and Mrs. Robin if they could get them. But they couldn't get them. Anyway, they couldn't get enough of them. The ice was too hard for their bills. Now and then after a great deal of work pecking, pecking, pecking, they would manage to get a berry, but even then it was so covered with ice that when they swallowed it it chilled them still more if that was possible. They saw that it was perfectly hopeless to try to get enough of those berries to keep them alive. They simply couldn't do it; that was all. And there was no other food of which they knew. Do you wonder that they shivered as they sat side by side and wished with all their might that they had gone South in the Fall.

"We'll freeze to death before we are many hours older," said Welcome Robin sadly. Just that very instant a cheerful voice rang out.

"Dee, dee, dee, dee, dee, dee, dee! Just you come and follow me."

It was the voice of Tommy Tit the Chickadee and two seconds later he was in the cedar tree beside Welcome and Mrs. Robin, repeating his message.

"What's the use?" said Welcome Robin. "What's the use, Tommy? Everything that we can eat is covered with ice and our bills simply are not stout enough to break through it. This is the end of us and we may as well admit it."

"Nonsense! Perfect nonsense!" exclaimed Tommy Tit. "You do as I tell you and follow me. Never give up while there's hope."

"Nonsense! Perfect nonsense!" exclaimed Tommy Tit

"But there isn't any hope," sobbed Mrs. Robin. "I'm so cold now that I'm almost stiff. I feel weak already. The only thing that can save us is food, and where are we to get that I should like to know."

"Just perk up and follow me. Dee, dee dee, dee, dee, dee, dee!"

"Where to?" demanded Welcome Robin, already beginning to feel a little better for the good cheer of Tommy Tit.

"To the Old Orchard," replied Tommy. "To the Old Orchard, where you built your home last Spring. And the sooner we get there the better for all of us. I'm beginning to feel this cold myself, and must get a stomachful as soon as possible."

"But there isn't any food there!" cried Welcome Robin. "There isn't a thing on those trees which we could eat even if there was no ice."

"Ask no questions, follow me. Off we go now—one, two, three!"

Suiting action to his words, Tommy Tit flitted away in the direction of the Old Orchard. Welcome Robin hesitated, then made up his mind. "We may as well die there as to die here," said he. "Tommy seems to be very sure of what he is about; and, you know, he has spent more than one Winter up here. Come on, my dear."

Mrs. Robin shivered, but she joined Welcome Robin, and both flew after Tommy Tit, whose cheery voice came back to them, filled with encouragement, as he led the way toward the Old Orchard. And all the time they wondered what he expected to find there, and whether this was the last time they ever would fly.

Next story: Thankfulness in the Old Orchard.

Food Problem of Big Orient City Pitifully Acute

VANCOUVER, April 30 (CP)—Food conditions in Shanghai are acute, Brigadier B. Morris, in charge of Salvation Army refugee work in Shanghai for the past three and a half years, said here last night on his arrival on the Japanese liner, Hikawa Maru.

"In that time," he said, "there have been 68,500 refugees come to us with nothing but the clothes they were wearing."

"The food problem is pitifully acute. Three years ago we could buy 220 pounds of rice for $9.50. Two weeks ago the same amount was $145."

FIRE IN TORONTO

TORONTO, April 30 (CP)—Between 400 and 500 children marched calmly out of St. Rita's School, in West-End Toronto, today when fire that destroyed a factory and three houses spread to the school, damaging it and several other houses. The factory of Sawdust Products, Ltd., was destroyed. No one was injured.

MOVIE PORTRAYS WORK OF SPIES

"Clouds Over Europe" Is Currently Showing at the York Theatre With Star Cast

Motion picture scenarists sometimes provide headaches out of all proportion to their final efforts. When, for example, Scriptist Ian Dalrymple penned Columbia's "Clouds Over Europe," current at the York Theatre, with Laurence Olivier, Ralph Richardson and Valerie Hobson, he had no idea that in less than eighty words he would provide his studio with more than a week's work, and with a budgetary debit of minor war proportion.

The seven scenes described by Dalrymple are, in fact, pages torn from a war history, although "Clouds Over Europe" actually is a debonair, laugh-packed romantic comedy based upon Scotland Yard's efforts to uncover a widespread spy ring responsible for the mysterious disappearance of airplanes in flight.

YOUNG STAR IN MUSICAL MOVIE

Judy Garland Plays Feature Role In "Little Nellie Kelly" At Cadet Theatre

Taking its place as a milestone in the career of Judy Garland, "Little Nellie Kelly," filmization of the famous George M. Cohan musical comedy, opening today at the Cadet Theatre for an engagement of three days, presents the young star in her first grown-up role.

The story revolves around the life of a little Irish girl who marries against the wishes of her father. The feud that ensues from that moment between the father and his son-in-law makes for comedy as well as tears. When the daughter dies, leaving an infant girl to be cared for, the child finds itself torn between love for her father and her grandfather. Through her efforts the two are finally brought together. Miss Garland appears both as the mother and as the thoroughly Americanized daughter.

ACTION GALORE IN WESTERN HIT

Rio Theatre Now Shows "Young Bill Hickok" Starring Roy Rogers

Western fans will lap up the new Roy Rogers outdoor drama of stagecoach raiders and the courageous efforts of an unforgettable young American pioneer in "Young Bill Hickok," Republic film opening today at the Rio Theatre.

Rogers' portrayal of Young Hickok is accurate and deeply convincing and proves again the power of motion pictures as an educational medium for bringing famous and interesting people to life in celluloid. The actor is at his best in the role, and his singing will win the hearts of many new fans.

"BITTER SWEET" COMES TO ATLAS

Jeanette MacDonald Is Versatile In Brilliant Musical With Nelson Eddy

Jeanette MacDonald, who started her stage career as singer and dancer but has danced only three times on the screen, in "The Merry Widow," "The Firefly" and "Sweethearts," combines both talents a fourth time in "Bitter Sweet," the Noel Coward musical which opens today on the screen of the Atlas Theatre.

The star performs a solo waltz in a Victorian ballroom setting, dances and sings with two other girls in the "Ladies of the Town" number in a Vienna cafe, waltzes again with George Sanders in the same cafe and performs a gypsy number in the "Zigeuner" sequence of the show within the show.

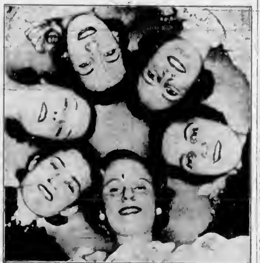
The SNAPSHOT GUILD

STUNT PICTURES



This is a simple but interesting "stunt" shot—fun to take on a winter evening. How to get such shots is explained below.

EVERY now and then, a stunt picture adds variety to the camera hobby. Of course, you don't want a regular diet of them. But it's fun to have a few in the album—shots that make people say, "For goodness sake! How did you get that one? It's certainly a clever shot!"

The picture above is a fine example of a "stunt shot"—and, yet, it was really quite easy to take. The girls simply stood in a circle, then bent over and put their heads together, like a football huddle. The camera was on the floor, focused for a close-up, and pointing straight upward. For light, a small flash bulb was placed beside the camera, and the exposure was made by the simple "open the shutter, flash the bulb, close the shutter" method. It could probably have been taken just as easily by having two floodlights an inch or so from the floor, one on either side of the camera.

This is an "up angle" stunt shot, but you could also turn things right around and take a "straight down" shot—maybe from the upper stairway landing—that would be just as interesting.

Another stunt that provides lots of fun is to have part of a subject too close to the camera, so that it shows up too large . . . being careful, of course, not to hurt anybody's feelings. Doubtless you have seen pictures of a person sitting on a bench, with his feet toward the camera so that they were several sizes over normal. That's "old stuff" now—but try it with a subject's hand. Have him lecturing the camera, or making a speech and gesturing toward the camera—or put a boxing glove on him and have him pretend to take a poke at the camera. With the hand about two feet from the camera, the subject himself can be about four feet back and appear much smaller. You must use a very small lens opening, but even if the hand is a little out of focus, the effect is still interesting.

One of the most mystifying stunts is to show an object floating in air. This is easy indoors. You just hang up the object by a black thread and light it with a photo lamp. Then you place a piece of cardboard a foot or two in front of the light, high enough so it just shades the thread but doesn't shade the subject. And the thread is then "lost" against the shadows in the background—it isn't even there.

Try some of these stunts. They'll give you a whole evening of fun—and you'll get pictures that really surprise your friends.—John van Guilder.

COMEDY ROMANCE THEME OF FILM

"The Lady in Question" Comes to Oak Bay Theatre Starring Brian Aherne

Love makes the world go round, and romance is not dead. That, obviously, was the message to be found in Columbia's delightful new comedy romance "The Lady in Question," which stars Brian Aherne and Rita Hayworth at the Oak Bay Theatre.

The season's most delightful adventure of the heart, a rich and rewarding experience for all incurable romantics, as well as all motion picture fans who want entertainment which evokes a blissful good humor.

PLAZA THEATRE The highly amusing and typical George Formby picture, "I See Ice," is being held over at the Plaza Theatre. Lively and animated, the story is well cast, with George as a would-be photographer's assistant, whose ambition it is to take news photographs for the national press.

CAPITOL THEATRE Nearly a quarter of a million dollars worth of genuine jewels were worn by Margaret Sullavan in scenes for "Back Street," in which she stars with Charles Boyer, and which is now at the Capitol Theatre. Carefully guarded by police during the day the jewels were deposited each night in the vault in the Universal Studio cashier's office.

DOMINION THEATRE Packed with dramatic dynamite and interspersed with plenty of earthy lusty humor Twentieth Century-Fox's "Tobacco Road" is now showing at the Dominion Theatre. Realistically produced by Darryl F. Zanuck this sensational stage play, which has rocked the theatrical world for eight years, has been transformed into the most memorable motion picture of our time. There's only one thing to do—see it!

COMEDIANS STARRED IN "BUCK PRIVATES"

Every one of the fifty-three commissioned and non-commissioned officers appearing in "Buck Privates," the Universal fun film about the army, starring Abbott and Costello, with Lee Bowman, Alan Curtis and the Andrews Sisters, which will start tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre, is of actual military experience comparable to his rank.

But there is one exception. He is Selmer Jackson, who plays the colonel, and has done more than a score of high-ranking officers of the army and navy in pictures. Jackson has never served a day in real-life uniform.

CREDIT UNION SOCIAL

The Perpetual Help Credit Union will hold a social and card party in the Women's Institute Hall, 635 Fort Street, this evening at 8.30. All members and friends are cordially invited.

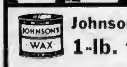
A HABIT

A radio comedian lies flat on the floor while broadcasting. A safety-first habit persisting from his old music hall days, no doubt.



WHY IS IT CALLED "PIG" IRON?

"Pig" iron is a misnomer; it has nothing to do with "pigs" and it was so called originally because of a fanciful notion.

Iron ore is of course melted and when in this state, the liquid is directed and made to flow into molds.

It is these molds that are known as "pigs," and they are so called because they branch from a principal channel denominated a "sow."

The terminology springs from the fact that long ago, the entire setup was likened to a litter of pigs sucking their dam.

VARSITY TRIMS TORONTO TO WIN CANADIAN TITLE

STUDENTS REGISTER 58-32 VERDICT AND WIN SENIOR HONORS

British Columbia Basketball Squad Ends Series in Three Straight Games—First Crown to Point Grey Institution Since 1937—2,000 Spectators at Game

VANCOUVER, April 30 (CP).—University of British Columbia Thunderbirds smothered Toronto Simpson Grads under a 58-32 score tonight to capture the Canadian senior men's basketball championship in three straight games for their first national title since 1937.

Thunderbirds' win in three straight games over the hard-fighting Grads gave them a play-off record of twelve straight victories and brought the national crown to British Columbia for the fifth straight year. Vancouver Westerns won it in 1938, Victoria Dominoes in 1939 and Vancouver Maple Leafs last year.

Although Grads put up a better fight tonight than they did in the first game, Saturday, when they lost 42-24 and Monday, when they were downed 51-42, the outcome was never in doubt after the first quarter.

Led by their two high-scoring stars, Pat Flynn and Brud Matheson, Varsity jumped into an 11-7 lead in the first quarter and enjoyed a 27-14 edge at the half. The third proved the collegians' big period as they scored twice for every Grad point in the opening minutes to end the period on the long end of a 49-21 count.

Grads fought gallantly in the final quarter, but Varsity's lead proved too much and the students coasted to victory.

Centre Pat Flynn came near setting a scoring record for a Dominion final with a total of twenty points for Varsity. Brud Matheson had sixteen for the collegians. Bill Breadon proved the best of the Grads with ten, and Jack Martin had seven.

FIRST QUARTER

Close to two thousand fans packed the Forum to see the game.

Varsity opened the scoring with a basket by Pat Flynn. Jack Martin, of Toronto, was fouled by Brud Matheson and sank the free one for Grads' first point. Flynn, of Varsity, came back with another field goal and Matheson added a free shot after being fouled by Martin, to put Varsity on the long end of a 5-1 count.

Bill Breadon, of Toronto, brought the Grads to within two points at 5-3 by dribbling through the Varsity defence for a field goal. Flynn scored his third basket of the quarter. Shag Park converted Bill Devitt's pass in the best play of the quarter to pull the Grads up to within two points again at 7-5.

Brud Matheson popped in a long basket for Varsity, but Jack Martin scored on a "bucket" play for Grads to keep them within two points. Doug Pedlow, of Varsity, sank one from under the basket to end the scoring with Varsity on the long end of an 11-7 count.

SECOND QUARTER

Varsity opened fast from the whistle in the second quarter and Jim Scott and Flynn accounted for two quick baskets before Breadon found the range for a long shot for Toronto. Matheson went through alone for two more quick Varsity baskets to give the collegians a ten-point lead at 19-9.

Breadon canned another long one for Grads but Flynn came back for Varsity with two more quick baskets single-handed and Matheson made it 25-11 when he sank Art Barton's rebound from under the hoop. Scott fouled Devitt and the Toronto player sank the shot, but Barton went through for another Varsity field goal, making the count 27-12.

Jack Martin went the length of the floor to score for the Grads in the final play of the period, leaving Varsity on the long end of a 27-14 score.

THIRD QUARTER

Varsity stepped up the pace even more as the third quarter got under way and popped in four baskets, two by Flynn and the others by Scott and Matheson before Martin replied with a Toronto field goal. The drive gave Varsity a 35-16 lead.

Flynn banged in another field goal for the collegians but Breadon replied for Toronto. Scott made it 39-18 for Varsity with another basket before George McDowell came back for Toronto to make it 39-20.

Varsity broke away again. Matheson scored five points in a row—two field goals and a free shot on a foul by McDowell—and then Barton scored on a foul by Martin and Scott gave the collegians another basket to make the score 47-20.

Scott and Matheson both fouled Ken Bundy and the Grad player sank one but missed the other throw.

Flynn—who proved the spearhead of the smart Varsity attack—finished off the period with another field goal to end the period with Varsity leading 49-21.

FOURTH QUARTER

Barton added two points for Varsity, sinking Matheson's pass as the final quarter opened, but Park sank a foul shot after being tripped by Scott. Breadon followed with a Toronto field goal to make the score 51-24.

Joe Ryan popped in a jump shot for the collegians and was fouled by Maxwell on the play, sinking the free throw. Park dropped in a hard angle shot for Grads. Lynn Sully, a Varsity sub, came into the game and sank a free throw after being fouled by McDowell.

Barton put the collegians on the long end of a 56-26 count by dropping in a free one on a foul by Park. Breadon went in fast on the wing and sank a neat one-hander for Toronto, but Ryan got that back seconds later for Varsity, sinking a shot from under the hoop.

Scott fouled Breadon but the Grad missed his shot. Scott went off on personals, the first player to leave the game. Ray Murph sank a long angle shot on a pass from Park to end the scoring, with Varsity enjoying a twenty-six point lead at 58-32.

Referees Chosen For Boxla Games Tuesday Evening

"COTTON" Brynjolfson and "Buzz" Brown were last night named to handle the opening boxla fixtures at the Victoria Sports Centre next Tuesday evening. Announcement of the appointment of the two popular arbiters was made by Ed Popham, vice-president and chairman of referees. The season's inaugural show will present two championship squads, and two of their bitterest rivals in a double programme that promises to please the fans. Manager Ted Menzies' James Bay senior aggregation, 1940 titleholders, will cross sticks with Alert Service in the feature attraction at 8.30 o'clock, and McLean's Bakery, junior champions, will oppose Owl Drug in the curtain raiser at 7 o'clock. W. C. Moresby, K.C., former president of the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association, will face-off the ball for the senior attraction. Gate receipts from the opening night's programme will be donated to the Canadian Red Cross. Officials and ticket men are all giving their services free of charge and an effort is being made to secure use of the building without payment of the usual rental fees.

ALL-STAR GRID TEAM IS NAMED

Inter-Scholastic Players Are Honored by Football Selection Committee

Victoria's first all-star inter-scholastic Canadian football team was named yesterday by local officials, twelve players, chosen from the four clubs gaining the honor.

St. Louis College, league champions and Vic-High topped the club representations, each placing four players on the squad. Saanich players gained three berths and Oak Bay merited representation with one player.

The season just concluded was the first for the majority of the boys, but by the time the play-offs rolled around the youngsters performed like veterans.

Here is the complete line-up: Centre, Johnny Moonen (St. Louis College); middle wings, Ed Turkington and Bill Simons (Saanich); inside wings, Don Shaw and Wally Yeamans (Vic-High); ends, Laurier LeBlanc and Jack Smith (St. Louis College); flying wing, Danny O'Connell (St. Louis College); halfbacks, Al McFarlane (Oak Bay), Bob Amos (Saanich), Dick Chungranes (Vic-High); quarterback, Fred Ransom (Vic-High).

Wins Canadian Hockey Championship

PICTURED above are the Winnipeg Rangers, the young hockey squad which captured the Memorial Cup, symbolic of the Canadian junior ice supremacy, last night, by defeating the Montreal Royals in the fifth and final game of the play-off series by a 7-4 score at Toronto. The Rangers enjoyed a great season winning the Western Canada title and the Abbott Memorial Cup along with it. Standing at the back are Sammy Fabro, Bill Robinson, Manager Scotty Oliver (whose head partially hides from view the face of Doug Baldwin), Glen Harmon, Hal Thompson, Mike Peter, Lou Medynski, Bill Heindl, Trainer Johnny Grose, Tommy Bredin and Earl Fast. Crouched in second row, left to right, are Bob Ballance, Bill Mortimer and Allan Hay. Kneeling in front, left to right, are Babe Hobday, Hub Masey, Hughie Millar and Lea Hickey. In the front, sitting, is John Miller, the team's mascot.

Winnipeg Rangers Win Hockey Title From Montreal 7-4

Flashy Western Champions Lift Canadian Junior Hockey Crown by Downing Royals in Final Game—Victory Breaks Deadlock Between East and West—Trophy Is Presented

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS, TORONTO, April 30 (CP).—The East had the Memorial Cup wrested from its grasp tonight, after holding it for the last two years, when Winnipeg Rangers took the coveted trophy and the Canadian junior hockey championship by defeating Montreal Royals 7-4 in the fifth game of their best-of-five series.

At the same time as they succeeded to the laurels held the past two seasons by Oshawa Generals, the Rangers also broke the deadlock existing between East and West in the matter of victories since the cup was first put into play in 1919. Rangers' victory put the West ahead with twelve triumphs to eleven for the East.

The Rangers gained their triumph on the great offensive play of Bill Robinson, centre on their first line, and one of his line mates, Lea Hickey. Although they couldn't have won without the work of the Robinson-Hickey combination, it was just as true that Royals would have won had it not been for the spectacular goaltending throughout of Hal Thompson, of Rangers.

SHINES IN GOAL

Through the first two periods, when Royals had definite command of the play, Thompson stood alone as the man who blocked their efforts to go into the lead. They couldn't beat Thompson and this gave Rangers the chance to lay back awaiting the breaks—which the Westerners did to perfection.

Rangers scored three of their goals in the first period, despite the fact they were outshot three or four to one, and it was that opening-period lead that carried them on to victory. Royals, the first representatives of Quebec Province ever to gain the Memorial Cup final, seemed to have the power to get close but never were able to forge to the front.

Robinson and Hickey each scored two goals while the other Winnipeg goals went to Bill Mortimer, Hugh Millar and Bob Ballance. Grant Morrison, Rollie Bleau, Jimmy Planche and Bobby Carragher scored in that order for Royals, with Carragher getting his goal with less than a minute and a half to go.

Only four penalties were handed out in the game, with one in the third period to Defenceman Bob MacFarlane of Royals, having the greatest bearing on the outcome of the contest.

MacFarlane took his penalty for charging Hickey shortly after the start of the third period, while Rangers were ahead 4-3, and while Royals were striving desperately to get organized for a thrust—that would bring a goal to tie the score. While MacFarlane was off, Mortimer beat Goalie Ross Ritchie for a goal to put Rangers ahead, 5-3. It was the score that put the game away for the Rangers.

RANGERS SCORE FIRST

Two other goals were scored while the teams were short-handed due to penalties. The Rangers opened the scoring in the first period, with Robinson getting a goal, when Carragher was chased for tripping. A little more than three minutes later Morrison scored while Tommy Bredin, of Rangers, was off for cross-checking Bruce Ward.

Rangers won the three victories necessary to take the trophy on Toronto ice. They took the opener here 4-2, lost the second game in Montreal, 5-3, and then won, 6-4, here in the third contest. Royals took the fourth game, 4-2, in Montreal the other night, scoring two quick goals in the last minute.

Carragher and Hickey emerged as the point-scoring leaders in the series, both marking up nine points. Carragher fired home five goals and helped in four, while Hickey just reversed the procedure.

The teams gathered at centre ice after the game and George Dudley,

Regent as a hostage while the British officer went in search of Mr Campbell

WEARS LARGEST ENSIGN

"Meanwhile, HMS Regent lay in harbor wearing her largest White Ensign whilst surrounded by large forces of the Italian army. This tense but farcical situation continued for nine hours while the submarine waited in hope the landed British officer would find Mr Campbell and bring him down to the port

"Nine hours after entering the harbor, however, HMS Regent was attacked by two Italian dive bombers. These dropped several bombs and attacked with machine guns slightly wounded the commanding officer the first lieutenant and one petty officer of HMS Regent.

"The commanding officer of HMS Regent then decided he could wait no longer in face of great risk of further attacks. HMS Regent dived and left the harbor submerged

THROUGH MINEFIELDS

"HMS Regent had to pass through two minefields in order to reach the harbor of Kotor. These she successfully negotiated on leaving and then passed out of the Adriatic and returned to her base with the Italian hostage still aboard

"Although HMS Regent's mission was unsuccessful in rescuing the British Minister the fact that a British submarine could lie for nine hours in a harbor occupied by the enemy and subsequently be successfully extricated is tribute to the coolness and determination of the commanding officer and crew of the HMS Regent."

STRANDED AT DURAZZO

DURAZZO, Albania, April 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Ronald Ian Campbell, British Minister to Yugoslavia, is stranded in this Albanian port with his staff after failing in a daring plan to escape the invading Axis armies by submarine.

The British officials, with their families and a sprinkling of Greek, Belgian and Polish diplomats from Belgrade—about forty persons in all—were found in a Durazzo hotel by foreign correspondents who arrived here from Rome on their way to the former Italian-Greek warfront

The party had been at the hotel for three days, not exactly refugees or prisoners, but a bit of both.

They were brought here by bus from the Yugoslav port of Dubrovnik, where they were found waiting on the dock for a British submarine when Mussolini's soldiers marched into the city

St. Louis Squad Moves Into First Place by Victory

Trims New York Giants to Replace Dodgers as Leaders in National League by Four Points—Brooklyn Wins Ninth Straight—Cleveland Rallies to Beat Athletics

By The Canadian Press

Celebrating the anniversary of their ninth straight victory at the start of the 1940 season, Brooklyn Dodgers assaulted Johnny Vander Meer in the last two innings yesterday to clip Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, for their ninth straight success of 1941.

But St Louis Cardinals, who have lost only three games and won ten, have a percentage of .768. The Dodgers, with four lost and thirteen won, have .765.

It was just a year ago that Tex Carleton, then a Dodger, pitched his no-hitter against the Reds at Cincinnati.

In the eighth inning Dixie Walker knocked his third home run of the season, Harry Lavagetto walked and Joe Medwick hit his third homer of the year to tie the score at three-all.

In the ninth Mickey Owen and Pee-wee Reese doubled for the victory run.

St Louis Cardinals whipped New York Giants, 6-4 for a percentage of four points over Brooklyn Dodgers for the National League lead

Enos Slaughter homered in the fifth and Johnny Mize hit a circuit clout in the ninth.

Chicago Cubs belted four Boston Pitchers for a 8-4 National League win

Philadelphia Nationals' four runs in the seventh inning gave them their second straight national win over Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-4

Outfielder Bob Elliott clouted a home run in the fifth with one aboard. Relief Pitcher Dick Lanahan was credited with the loss.

CLOSE VICTORY

The customers were walking out because the American League-leading Cleveland Indians were two runs behind, had nobody on base and two were out in the ninth. But Philadelphia Athletics never got that last man out and the Tribe won, 6-5. Ken Keltner's home run into the bleachers broke up the game. Earlier Roy Weatherly and Jeff Heath homered for the Indians

Jim Bagby, Jr., made his first start for the Indians on the mound from which his father led the Tribe to their only pennant victory in 1920, but went to the showers after giving up three runs in six innings

New York Yankees mauled St Louis Browns, 7-1, with a fourteen-hit attack led by Joe Gordon. Gordon batted in four runs with a home run and three singles in five tries. George Selkirk also homered and Joe DiMaggio hit a triple and a single

The Detroit Tiger batting power broke loose to smash Boston Red Sox 12-8 and carry Buck Newsom to his first victory in four starts. Rudy York got a home run as Tigers walloped four Boston pitchers for eighteen hits

Chicago White Sox winners of four straight games by one-run margins, were headed for another close finish until wildness in the eighth inning by Washington's pitcher, Ken Chase helped them to four runs and a fifth straight triumph, 5-1.

100,000 AT RACE SCENE

Enormous Crowd Assembles For Running of Kentucky Derby Saturday

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 (AP)—The primping which annually converts Louisville into "Derbytown" started full blast today as the field for Saturday's sixty-seventh running of the Kentucky Derby shrank to eleven probable starters

Hotel lobbies were jammed and food and drink prices began their yearly climb as the vanguard of the expected crowd of 100,000 poured into the city.

Trainer George Brooks announced he would not send the lightweight longshot, Agricole, to the post.

Robert J. Kleberg Jr.'s Dispose, winning the Flamingo and Bahamas Stakes in Florida, ran last in the Experimental Handicap, April 18. Immediately he dropped from among the ranking contenders.

Less than twenty-four hours after his arrival from New York, he went the Derby mile-and-a-quarter route in 3 06 3-5, one of the better preps among the candidates for the $75,000 added jackpot and immediately the railbirds put him back in the picture, not far behind such public choices as Our Boots, Porter's Cap, Blue Pair and the popular Whirlaway. He showed little sign of tiring

The other colts took it easy. J. Fred Byers' Robert Morris and Lou Tufano's Market Wise took an easy gallop but did little. Neither did those on hand earlier—Our Boots, Porter's Cap, Whirlaway, Rock Palladino's Little Beans, Cleveland Putnam's Swain, Emerson F. Woodward's Valdina Paul and Blue Pair.

CHRISTOFORIDIS KAYOES ROMERO

ST LOUIS, April 30 (AP)—Anton Christoforidis, recognised by the National Boxing Association as light-heavyweight champion of the world, knocked out Johnny Romero, Mexico City, in the second round of their scheduled ten-round non-title bout here tonight after flooring the Mexican twice for counts of nine

HIT HARD AT NAZI BASES

Eight Nazi raiders were brought down in the overnight attacks

DESTRUCTION IN GERMANY

Meanwhile Royal Air Force bombers carried fire and destruction into Germany, where thousands of incendiaries and high explosive bombs—including many of the new super-bombs—were dropped on Mannheim, important Rhineland industrial centre. Large fires were reported. One bomber was lost

The night was clear but dark and the first wave of attackers penetrating a screen of anti-aircraft fire, had to drop many flares which showed up the whole town.

Later arrivals said many fires of varying size were burning "and when the most powerful bombs went down a very large fire sprang up . . ."

Oil stores at Rotterdam also were attacked by R A F bombers, and the Air Ministry said American-built Havoc planes carried out successful attacks against three airdromes in Northern France

The Havoc is a Douglas DB-7 light bomber equipped for night fighting

AIRDROME BOMBED

The ministry said a stick of high explosive and incendiary bombs dropped from a low level was seen to burst on an airdrome just as three German aircraft were about to land and two others were taxiing across the field

One plane the service said, circled over the airdrome until the incendiary-kindled fire had burned out.

At the second base, a Havoc crew surprised a number of German planes landing in a flare-lighted path, but results of the attack were not disclosed. At the third, it said a Havoc bombed a flare-path and then shot down a Messerschmitt.

In daylight raids yesterday a German supply ship of about 5,000 tons was set on fire and four others of between 1,000 and 2,000 tons were hit and damaged.

ATTACKS ON SHIPPING

The British bombers, in some cases escorted by swift fighters made attacks on shipping at low levels off the coast of France, Belgium and Norway.

Two bombers and one fighter were lost in the daylight operations.

The bulletin said British planes swooped on a German convoy near Ostend, Belgium, sinking a 3,000-ton ship, setting another afire and machine-gunning the decks

Several Messerschmitt 109's entered the engagement and "at least one of the enemy was damaged by one of our bombers," the ministry said

Near the Isle of Brehat, southwest of the Channel Islands, a 1,000-ton supply ship was successfully attacked by other aircraft from a very low level, the bulletin said

CONVOY BOMBED

Off the coast of Norway two British bombers dived to bomb an unescorted convoy, scoring a hit on a large ship of between 4,000 and 8,000 tons

"Immediately after the bombs exploded, the ship was well alight and may be considered a total loss," the report said.

A ship of about 1,500 tons, hit on the stern, the ministry said, "made a quick turn toward land and it is believed she was severely damaged, perhaps beyond repair."

THE UNKIND CUT

The teacher believed in giving her class lessons in general knowledge.

"What is this?" she asked one day, holding up a small object.

"A pay envelope," replied little Freddie promptly.

"Good!" exclaimed the teacher. "And what did it contain?"

"Money," said Freddie, "your wages."

"Very good, Freddie!" she said, beaming round the class. "Any questions about it?"

"Please, teacher," remarked one thoughtful child, "where do you work?"

DESTROYED IN INDIAN OCEAN

Seven British Ships and One Yugoslavian Vessel Are Reported Sunk

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP).—Marine circles said today that eight ships, seven British and one Yugoslavian, most of them carrying food to Britain, have been destroyed recently by Axis raiders operating in the Indian ocean. The vessels totaled 57,259 tons. They were listed as:

City of Bagdad, 7,506-ton freighter, King City, 4,744 tons freighter; Scientist, new 6,199-ton freighter; Benarty, 5,800 tons, freighter; Athelking, 8,557 tons, built to carry molasses or petroleum; Kemmendine, passenger liner, 7,769 tons, Commissaire Ramel, former French passenger liner, 10,061 tons, and the Yugoslav freighter Durmitor 5,623 tons.

They were reportedly destroyed either by the Nazi pocket battleship Admiral Scheer or by one of seven other raiders—former merchantmen known to have been operating in the area.

American ships pass through the Indian Ocean en route to India via Capetown, and the liners Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, Mauretania, Aquitania and others use these waters to carry Anzac soldiers to Africa.

The City of Bagdad, owned by the Ellerman Lines, traded between New York, Baltimore, Canada and England before the war. The King City ran from Florida ports to England, and the Athelking often operated between Corpus Christi, Texas, and England.

Districts Give Freely to Fund

CUMBERLAND, April 30.—Final returns of subscriptions to the Canadian War Services Fund show that the three areas of Cumberland, Union Bay and Fanny Bay went "over the top" with aggregate collections of $2,241.18. Cumberland, which had a quota of $200 collected approximately $1,163.01. Union Bay contributed $202.43, all in cash. Fanny Bay collectors turned in $870.75, and $5 was received from Denman Island.

What Today Means

"TAURUS"

If May 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10.15 a.m. to 12.15 p.m., from 2.15 to 4.15 p.m. and from 8.15 to 10.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8.15 to 10.15 a.m., from 6.15 to 8.15 p.m. and from 10.15 p.m. until midnight.

The holier-than-thou attitude will be a great irritant on May 1, and may result in arousing a great deal of resentment, so under no condition adopt this poise. Level-headed actions and kind words will help the average person to get through the day without needless quarreling. Try to avoid using substitutes, especially for perishable goods. Do not be tempted to buy anything solely because it is cheap, for, apparently, much money will be wasted by foolish buying and acquisition of merchandise that is not actually needed. The most romantic and sentimental people possess keen intelligence, so give them credit for knowing what they want to do, especially if they are married, engaged, or busily trying to win somebody's heart and hand.

If a woman and May 1 is your birthday, you probably will develop ideas that will add materially to your peace of mind and happiness. You have much to gain by listening to other people and observing the results they have obtained through research work. You are capable of doing some very sound reasoning, if you do not permit frivolous thinking to occupy too much of your time. Included in the field of endeavor in which you should do exceptionally well are management, education, literature, the theatre, art, music and promotional work. Congenial companionship is the medium through which your domestic felicity is likely to come, so you and the man you marry must endeavor to maintain common interests.

The child born on May 1, as soon as he is old enough to do any logical reasoning, is seldom satisfied by evasive or baffling answers to any questions he may ask. Sensible explanations will aid greatly this youngster's intellectual development. Children born on this date will, in all likelihood, develop into thrifty, industrious members of society, whose accomplishments are apt to be outstanding.

If a man and May 1 is your natal day, kindheartedness probably characterizes most of your actions. Money may be only a means of some desirable end in so far as you are personally concerned, so when you have money in your possession the chances are you are over generous with it. As a salesman, merchant, manufacturer, soldier, sailor, aviator, author, educator, engineer, inventor, painter, geologist, publisher, or in some dramatic pursuit you may attain a prosperous and enviable position.

HERBERT PENDRAY TO GIVE ADDRESS

An intensely interesting lecture dealing with the Balkan states, Turkey, Egypt and Nazi-occupied territory such as The Netherlands, Denmark and Belgium, will be given by Herbert Pendray at the Fairfield United Church at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The lecture is being sponsored by the board of stewards.

Mr Pendray will illustrate his lecture with Technicolor films of these countries taken during an extensive tour of Europe. He also will show several comic films for the entertainment of the children.

As a result of his tour, Mr Pendray is equipped to discuss with authority the countries so important to a Nazi victory. The significance of Hitler's drive to the south will be illustrated, as also will the situation in North Africa and the Suez.

That Body of Yours

by JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

YOUR FIRST VISIT TO A PHYSICIAN MAY NOT REVEAL TRUE CONDITION

A young man boxed as an amateur for five years, then as a professional for five years. The first year he turned professional he was motoring to a large city for an important bout. At a distance of one hundred miles from the city where he was to box, the car slid into the ditch and partly turned over. He was upset but unhurt. He then drove rapidly so as not to be late for the weighing in. The physician examining him did not like the rapid heart beat and the high blood pressure present. He was about to reject him when the boxer explained that he had always passed as fit in different cities including New York. Another physician present agreed that the boxer was "not quite fit to box," but that the upsetting of the car and the rapid driving thereafter might be responsible for the symptoms and he was allowed to box that night.

However, the questioning about the condition of his heart had so upset his "timing" that during his bout he boxed poorly and lost the bout.

Early next morning he returned to his home city excited and worried and reported to his physician. Sure enough, his heart rate was twenty beats above normal and his blood pressure was also up twenty points. His physician chatted with him for a little while, explained how his accident and rapid driving immediately afterwards could so upset his heart and blood pressure that the examiners for the boxing commission would have been justified in preventing him boxing that evening. The physician pointed out that there was really no organic trouble present and he would not be prevented from boxing by any boxing commission unless he got excited or worried. His heart rate and blood pressure were again taken (about half an hour after the first test) and were found to be down to normal.

The point is that any emotional disturbance, any fear or worry about the result of a physical examination can so upset the body organs and processes—heart, blood pressure, stomach, bowel, bladder—that the real or true condition is hidden. Therefore do not be alarmed if at your first visit to a physician your pulse is rapid, blood pressure high or urine shows a trace of albumen or sugar. If you are really normal the second visit will show it. At least it does so in nine out of ten cases.

"I like that dress you're wearing."

"I got it for my twentieth birthday."

"Really! It has worn well, hasn't it?"

Nazis Threaten Eire Residents

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—The B.B.C. reported tonight that German airplanes have dropped leaflets in Eire warning residents against helping extinguish incendiary-bomb fires in Northern Ireland.

Referring to fire-fighting aid sent from neutral Eire to Belfast, Northern Ireland, after fires had been set by Nazi air raiders, B.B.C. in a broadcast heard here by N.B.C., said the German leaflets told Eire residents "if they tried this sort of thing again they might be given some fires of their own to be put out."
